FINNS APPEAL TO NAZIS

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERLIN, March 8 (INS)—Nazi Germany was asked to come to Finland's aid today against the imminent possibility of allied armed intervention in Scandinavia and to assist in obtaining reasonable peace terms from Soviet Russia.

The request was made by former President Pehr Svinhufvud of Finland who, accompanied by a Swedish delegation, arrived in Berlin by special plane from Stockholm and went immediately to the German foreign office where they were received by Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop.

Svinhufvud and the Swedes were expected to see Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler later in the day.

(Associated Press dispatches from Berlin stated Von Ribbentrop will leave for Rome tomorrow for conferences with Premier Mussolini.)

(The visit of Adolf Hitler's aide to the Italian capital was described by the Associated Press as in keeping with the Rome-Berlin agreement under which the axis partners keep each other advised concerning their foreign policies).

Best available information in German circles was to the effect that the sensational trip of the Finnish ex-President had been to convince the Reich that it was absolutely essential to intervene, diplomatically at least, "to prevent Allied intervention in behalf of Finland." There was no immediate indication as to Germany's reaction to the proposals.

(Editor's note—Highly authentic circles in Paris today firmly warned Finland against bowing to German pressure, predicting such capitulation would make Stockholm "another Munich and Finland another Czechoslovakia." These same sources indicated that Britain and France would immediately respond to a Finnish appeal for intervention.

Competent neutral observers were not certain as to Svinhufvud's exact status. A former President of Finland and long known as the "Grand Old Man" of that country, he is not now an active member of the government and it could not be certain whether his initiative in Berlin had the backing of his colleagues now in office or of the people as a whole. There have been reports for some time that various Finnish statesmen were divided at least to some extent upon the advisability of continuing the war against terrific Russian odds or of negotiating any sort of peace enabling the country to maintain its nominal independence.)

U. S. MAY ACT ON RED PEACE

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—Usually well-informed sources said today that the British government believed that the United States might be asked to mediate the Finnish-Russian war.

These sources said "some sort" of negotiations were believed to be in progress under Swedish supervision, but that another party "possibly the United States," might be invited to further the peace-making efforts.

Quarters close to the British Foreign Office said that mediation by the United States not only would be acceptable to both Finland and Russia, but also to the British-French Allies and to Germany.

The British government, these informants went on, has not been formally notified of any attempts at mediation, but takes the view that both sides appear willing to try for a settlement.

It was said that the presence of Finnish representatives in Stockholm indicates that tentative plans have been made for some meeting of Finnish and Russian representatives with a third nation as a mediator.

It was emphasized, however, that in the opinion of informed persons Russia is reluctant to accept any Scandinavian country as mediator.

A Swedish legation spokesman said he felt nothing could be said until he receives official word from Stockholm.

Russian sources remarked that "the affair is being handled in Moscow—not here."

The London Evening Standard said editorially that an offer by President Roosevelt to negotiate peace between Russia and Finland would "change the whole complexion of the affair."

"It might save thousands of brave Finnish lives and the independence of the nation which has won the right to freedom by the sword. We know the difficulties but we hope this call at least will be considered in Washington."

F. D. Says No Mediation Request Received by U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt said today the United States government had received no request for mediation in the Russo-Finnish war.

Beyond saying that, however, President Roosevelt declined to discuss European reports that mediation efforts of this government might be sought.

The President told his press conference that such matters were of a nature that could not be discussed even if negotiations of that kind were going on.

To another inquiry whether Undersecretary Welles was participating in any Russo-Finnish negotiations, the Chief Executive remarked there was nothing to be said on that.

A State Department official declined to say what would be the attitude of the government if a mediation request arrived.

Unofficially it was emphasized that the State Department was keenly interested in a peace that would be a real peace and also interested in keeping the war from spreading.

GREAT SECRECY MARKS FINN WAR PEACE MOVEMENT

By VERNER FORCHHAMMER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COPENHAGEN, March 8—Never have fatefully decisive international negotiations been carried on in greater secrecy than those launched in Stockholm in a desperate effort to mediate the Russo-Finnish war.

I have just returned from a lightning visit to Sweden in order to obtain telephone connections with certain reliable sources in Stockholm which owing to Swedish censorship could not be reached from any outside country.

For obvious reasons, I cannot mention the names of these contacts, but the picture I have been able to form is that peace negotiations actually are under way.

And thus far at least, no direct trace of German intervention or co-operation is to be found.

WAR HEADS IN PARLEY

Informed quarters believe the Soviet army is staying its hand to some extent at least on the various battlefronts to give the Finns every opportunity to compromise before a smashing blow is delivered.

(The Associated Press correspondent in Copenhagen reported the almost simultaneous arrival in Stockholm today of Finnish and Russian field marshals and "excited talk throughout Scandinavia of a possible conference between the two."

(Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim and Marshal Vassily Blucher, once Russia's powerful Far Eastern army commander, the Associated Press declared, were said to be in the Swedish capital, center of the new effort for peace.

(The Finnish government, according to the Associated Press dispatch, was said to have placed the choice of peace or war in the hands of Mannerheim.)

Field Marshal Mannerheim was reported to have stated before arriving in Stockholm that Finland cannot hold out against the Russians much longer unless outside aid is received.

MAY REJECT ULTIMATUM

Two Finnish negotiators, Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner and former President Pehr Svinhufvud, were reported remaining in Stockholm to continue the negotiations, and Russia's envoy to Sweden, Mme. Alexandra Kollontai, was representing the Soviet side.

Finnish Armies Still Check Reds

HELSINKI, March 8 (AP)—The Finnish high command reported today its hard-pressed forces defending the approaches by ice and land to strategic Viipuri were holding firm despite continued Soviet attacks.

The nation's dwindling manpower kept up the stubborn resistance to the ever-replenished forces of the invader in the midst of peace talk in which Russia was reported to have made far-reaching, ultimatum-like demands as the price of peace.

Success for the Finns all along the Karelian Isthmus front from the icebound coast south and southwest of Viipuri to Lake Ladoga on the eastern front was reported by the high command.

In the island-dotted vicinity of Viipuri the army said its forces destroyed several tanks "and at least eight guns of batteries brought by the enemy onto the ice."

Says $1650 Asked For 8 Connolly J

She was given a list of eight girl employes in the office of f Suffolk Superior Civil Courts, John Patrick Connolly, and was told to as a total of $1650 to hold their jobs, Miss Marguerite W. "Peg" Kennedy ave., Dorchester, testified today.

MURDER CLUE IN CAB DEATH

New tragedy and the grim spectre of murder came today in the police hunt for a car thief who stole a Cambridge taxicab on Wednesday night, with the pursuing owner of the cab crushed against a tree after he had leaped to the running board of the machine.

At his home in Western ave., Cambridge, 75-year-old Henry C. Matheson, heartbroken father of Russell Matheson, the cab owner, collapsed and died, an illness of five weeks aggravated by the shock of his son's death.

A short time after the father's death, the Boston Evening American learned—despite the silence of Cambridge police—that the younger Matheson had died, not as a result of injuries suffered when crushed against the tree, but as the result of a stab wound in the chest.

STABBED IN BREAST

New and strange turn in the case came when Medical Examiner Cornelius J. O'Leary, associate in Suffolk County, turned over the death certificate signed by him, to the undertaker who claimed Matheson's body, Daniel O'Brien of Cambridge.

Dr. O'Leary's finding was that Matheson died from a stab wound in the right breast.

With this finding came the possibility that the cab owner was lured from his stand in Central sq., Cambridge, by the car thief, allowed to catch up with the stolen machine, and then stabbed and brushed off the running board in Memorial drive.

This theory was lent credence when it was learned that the stolen car was a machine, without a governor, which could do up to 80 miles an hour, while the machine in which Matheson pursued was new and equipped with a governor holding its speed down to 35 miles.

It was pointed out that had the car thief desired, he could easily have outdistanced the pursuing Matheson.

YOUTH FACES QUIZ

Instead, however, according to Matheson's companion in the car, John Sullivan, 18-year-old newsboy of Columbia st., Cambridge, the auto thief alternately speeded up and slowed down, as if to lure the Matheson car to remain on the trail and to catch up in the drive along the Charles river.

Although Cambridge police refused either to admit or deny that they now had a homicide on their hands, they admitted it was their intention of again questioning young Sullivan in an attempt to get more detailed account of the car thief's action.

Police of Boston held a Roxbury youth for questioning in the taxi owner's death.

Last night the stolen cab, which apparently had remained parked at the spot for hours unnoticed, was found abandoned in Island st., Roxbury, by Patrolmen Arthur Reeves and William Kilty of the Dudley st. station.

Ruling Tonight On Old Colony

Officials of the State Department of Public Utilities said today that their decision on the petition of New Haven Railroad trustees for curtailment of passenger service on the Old Colony division of the road will be made public tonight.

Their decision covers approximately 50 pages, or more than 13,000 words.

Finds Parents, Sister Slain

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 8 (AP)—Eleven-year-old John Blastick found his father, mother and 15-year-old sister shot to death early today in the yard at their farm home at Spillway Lake near this southwestern Pennsylvania city.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. John Blastick and their daughter, Florence.

The son discovered the bodies as he crossed the yard on his way to feed livestock.

I only fought so hard because my heart hurt so. You've been very white about everything. I can only hope to emulate you and try to do something good with my life. I am very tired.

"Good bye, darling.

"Johanna."

Two other notes were found in the girl's rom. They bore no dates nor any indication as to whom they were written. One contained these passages:

"I'm just very much in love and that isn't smart, is it? It hurts and when you know something is going wrong, you avoid it. I wish you were poor like I am because then it would be so much easier. You are going to be away from me so much because you are very important and I am not."

The second note, also bearing only the salutation "Darling," said:

"I have been thinking of our first meeting, of how magnetism you were to me and how afraid I was of that magnetism, I have always been in terror of being snared by love. Perhaps this fear has been my protection . . .

"If I should lose you my world would crumble so completely there would be no reason to go on. My only place would be in joining my ancestors."

40 More Unknown Mattress Voters

Totalling more than 500 with this morning's mail, 40 more letters mark "unknown" were returned to the election commission in its questionnaire hunt for mattress voters.

Of the 25,000 questionnaires sent out by the commission 6000 have been returned, recording the voters at their proper addresses. But the stream of returns marked "unknown" continues, with the Back Bay, South End, West End and Roxbury producing most of the false registrations.

Wife Wins Divorce On Son's Birthday

Mrs. Caroline L. King in Suffolk Probate Court today won a divorce on this, the first birthday anniversary of a son.

Mrs. King, also the mother of a second boy, four years old, asked her freedom from Allen B. King on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and intoxication.

The case, before Judge John V. Mahoney, was uncontested.

Mrs. King, a tall brunette, now living in Orlando ave., Winthrop, said that her husband was a heavy drinker, and that on Wednesday and Saturday nights he came home intoxicated.

"When he gets drunk, he cries," she said.

Dr. Lyman H. Hoyt of the Back Bay, said he had treated Mrs. King for a nervousness since 1934, and that about a year ago she showed marked improvement.

"She told me she had left her husband then," he said.

Mrs. Elizabeth Davis of Bartlett rd., Winthrop, sister of Mrs. King, said King had celebrated the birth of his first son by appearing at the Phillips House of the Massachusetts General Hospital so intoxicated the doctors were forced to ask him to leave.

Three other women won uncontested divorces, all on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

Mrs. Annie Reed of Middlesex st., South End, told Judge Mahoney that her husband had been so lazy after their marriage that she was obliged to go on the welfare.

"Why, I had to go to my mother's home to get enough food to eat," she explained.

Mrs. Dorothy Ross of Longwood ave., Back Bay, testified concerning the heavy drinking of her husband, Herbert.

"I thought I could reform him, but he used to drink all the time," she said.

Mrs. Mary Hurlburt of Braintree and Dorchester testified she "stood married life fith Parker Hurlburt" until he blacked one of their two children's eyes.

"Then I left and went to live with my sister," sch testified. "I couldn't stand it. He never bought me any clothes."

FLOODS FEARED IN STATE

Mindful of the floods of 1936, state engineers today began unusual preparations to avert a similar situation in Massachusetts this year as spring drew near and temperatures generally ranged higher.

According to engineers, conditions now, particularly in western Massachusetts, resemble those before the disastrous floods of four years ago.

DANGER IF IT RAINS

According to District State Engineer Martin J. Dalton of Worcester, the snow cover on watersheds now is equal to a solid water sheet five to seven inches deep.

Dalton said that other features disturbing the engineers are that the frost has penetrated from three to four feet underground and ice on some upper feeders is 36 inches thick.

Also some stream bottoms are considerably raised because of accumulated hurricane debris.

If the snow melts gradually, the engineers said, the danger of floods will pass, but if a two or three-day thaw comes with the heat of warm rain, as in 1936, there will be danger.

MAPS ARE PREPARED

Selectmen and highway engineers in various cities and towns are watching ice jams and obstructions for the state engineers, district engineers are establishing flood gauges and a list of state-licensed blasters and handlers of explosives has been established.

Highway detour maps have been plotted and county engineers, with jurisdiction over small ponds, have arranged with owners of private reservoirs, mill ponds and other bodies of water, to open sluice gates at first sign of flood waters.

Temperature at 102, Remains on Jury

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., March 8—With a case involving six claims for flood damage in its eighth week and nearing completion, George W. Dahl of Brookline, Vt., chose today to stay in the jury box here despite a fever and temperature of 102.

Dahl sat stretched out in a rocking chair and wrapped in blankets as the six suits of Westminster and Putney farmers against the Bellows Falls Hydro-Electric Corporation were pressed in Windham County Court.

BAD SMELL?---IT'S QUABBIN

Charges that the water supply in the new Quabbin reservoir would give off a strong odor "like rotten eggs" for at least 10 years were aired here today.

In Springfield courtroom Elwood L. Bean of Cranston, R. I., a sanitary engineer, declared the odor is caused by decomposition of organic materials, liberating hydrogen sulphide.

Other matter affecting the color and odor of the water was described by Bean as "excrementitious."

Bean was on the stand in behalf of the Boston Duck Company of Bondsville, which is suing the Commonwealth for damages for alleged loss of water power and rights by diversion of the Swift river.

The witness added that foreign matter dissolving in the reservoir would be so strong as to stain the cloth if used in the manufacturing processes of the plaintiff.

OFFICER BEATEN IN STREET FIGHT

Set upon by five thugs as he was investigating a reported assault case, Patrolman William R. Stahler of the Warren ave. police station was brutally beaten during a free-for-all battle at Washington and Beach sts. today.

During the fight the officer was knocked to the ground and kicked repeatedly in the face by his assailants.

The five men disappeared when a prowler car arrived on the scene. A city-wide search was immediately started when Stahler declared he recognized at least two of the men.

Stahler was rushed to City Hospital, where he was found suffering from brain concussion, head lacerations, fractured nose and multiple body bruises.

According to investigating officers, the fight started after Stahler had been approached by a man and woman who complained they were molested by two men. The officer made a memorandum of their complaint and advised the couple to file a complete report at the Warren ave. station.

As the couple drove off, two men emerged from an alley and sprang at the officer.

Pair Smash 8 Windows

Leaving behind them scenes, police say reminiscent of the 1938 hurricane, two Watertown youths went on a window breaking spree early today, smashing plate glass in seven business establishments and a school building.

The youths, George T. Carey, 21, of Acton st., and Alphonse Russo, 21, of Copeland st., both pleaded guilty in Watertown District Court and were held in $500 bail for trial, March 16.

Starting in Mt. Auburn st, they heaved ash barrels through the plate glass windows at the Knox Upholstery company and Varsity Spa. Two empty stores, formerly used as Republican campaign headquarters, looked as though a cyclone had struck, shattered glass being all that remained of the windows.

The Francis school in Common st. was the next target. Then in quick succession followed the windows of the Murray Shoe company in Main st. and Lewandos Dyeing works.

U. S. Holds South End Man in Dope Case

Announcing that federal agents intend to co-operate with Boston police in a drive to "clean up Boston," Asst. U. S. Atty. Henry M. Lerr today asked $2000 bail for a South End man charged with receiving 75 grains of heroin.

U. S. Commissioner Edward Donovan ordered Donald Mcfarin, 30, of Washington st., South End, held in that amount after Mcfarin pleaded not guilty to the charge against him. Hearing will be held March 15.

WIRE-TAP PROBE UP TO SENATE

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—On the eve of a national campaign, Sen. Green (D.) of Rhode Island, forecast today a Senate investigation of the "political wire-tapping" he said was "becoming a major national evil."

With the unanimous support of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee, Green's resolution for a comprehensive inquiry was pending before the audit committee for approval of a $25,000 fund for the expenses before going to the Senate floor.

Sen. Schwartz (D.) of Wyoming, said the Interstate Commerce committee had received reports that one New York detective agency had engaged in "political" wire-tapping in several states. He and other committeemen mentioned New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, while other senators recalled a wire-tapping episode in Colorado.

Green told reporters that wire-tapping was "being used not only for gathering information about private citizens but for framing and blackmailing public officials."

Sen. Wheeler (D.) of Montana, chairman of the Interstate Commerce committee, said "the tapping of wires of private individuals or public officials is one of the most reprehensible things that could be done."

"The results obtained invariably are used for blackmailing purposes," Wheeler said. "There has been too much spying psychology in this country—and too many spies in the government service. The committee should go thoroughly into the matter and investigate wire-tapping, whether done by private detectives or by the government."

Schwartz, describing wire-tapping as "a racket," expressed the belief that an investigating committee "can get to the bottom of the whole business in two weeks."

Finley, Editor, Educator, Dead

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Dr. John H. Finley, 75, editor emeritus of the New York Times, editor and director of the Hall of Fame of New York University, is dead at his home in Gramercy Park.

Dr. Finley, born at Grand Ridge, Ill., was a former New York state commissioner of education, and at one time was president of Knox College at Galesburg, Ill., and of the College of the City of New York.

In 1899 he was editor of Harper's Weekly for a short time, and then he went to Princeton to teach politics, remaining there until his appointment in 1903 as president of City College.

He became head of the Red Cross organization to Palestine and the Near East, where he worked in 1918 and 1919. His love of walking carried him all over the Holy Land on trails described in Biblical passages.

Ousted Clerks Tell Of Buying Back Their Court Jobs

late Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley.

Both women testified they did not pay any money directly to former Clerk of Courts Connolly.

Miss Cunningham said she entrusted her $250 to her brother-in-law, Edward J. Kegan, a patrolman attached to the South Boston police station.

TELLS OF PHONE ALL

Miss Crowley told the court she gave her $250 to her brother, John J. Crowley.

The brother, called as a later witness, testified Conway told him it would cost $250 to get his sister's job back.

Crowley said he paid the $250 to Conway in a men's washroom in City Hall.

Under direct examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle, Miss Cunningham testified she worked for 20 years in th eclerk of court' office as an index clerk.

Q—After Mr. Connolly became clerk, were you given notice? A—Yes, on Feb. 4, 1937.

Q—After you received your notice, did you discuss the matter with Mr. Kegan, your brother-in-law? A—I did.

Q—At some time did you intrust $250 to your brother-in-law? A—Yes, around Feb. 11.

Q—Subsequently, did you receive a telephone call from Mr. Connolly? A—I did.

CALLED IT "MISTAKE"

Q—What did Mr. Connolly say? A—He called me up and wanted me to return to work the following week. He said there had been a mistake.

Q—How long after you had given the money to your brother-in-law did you get the telephone call? A—The end of that week.

Cross-examined by Defense Atty. Abner R. Sisson, Miss Cunningham testified she was a supporter of Connolly in his 1936 campaign for election as clerk of courts.

Q—You didn't see Mr. Connolly in that campaign? A—No.

Q—You didn't have any talk with him so he knew you were with him in that campaign? A—No.

Q—After you received your notice, didn't you tell Mr. Farquarson, "This is a fine state of affairs; I'm fired by the clerk I was with"? A—I don't recall.

(Farquarson was identified as an employe under Connolly.)

Q—You never told Mr. Farquarson about any money? A—No.

Q—Didn't Mr. Farquarson get in touch with you and say, "I talked with Mr. Connolly and he said he was sorry and you were to come to work?" A—Yes.

DREW OUT SAVINGS

Q—You never paid any money to Mr. Connolly? A—No.

The cross-examination was continued here by Atty. Herbert F. Callahan, counsel for Conway.

Q—How much did you earn in Mr. Connolly's office, Miss Cunningham? A—$1800 a year.

Q—Where did you get the $250 you say you gave your brother-in-law? A—I drew it out of my savings.

Q—Tell us what you did after you were given notice. A—The night I was fired, I went to South Boston and told Mr. Kegan. He and I went to the Parker House. I was in tears.

Q—Whom did you see at the Parker House? A—Mr. Conway.

Q—What was the conversation? A—Mr. Kegan explained to Mr. Conway how I had worked for Mr. Connolly during his campaign.

Q—Then Mr. Conway told you he would talk with Mr. Connolly? A—He said he'd see what he could do.

Miss Crowley was the next witness called after Miss Cunningham.

Miss Crowley said she had been employed in the clerk of court's office 16 years when she was given her notice in April 1937.

Q—(By Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle) —How long were you out of a job? A—Three or four weeks.

Q—Before you returned to work did you give $250 to your brother, John? A—Yes.

Q—When was that? A—May 18, 1937.

Q—After you were back at work did you attend any political meetings? A—Yes, two or three in 1939.

Q—Did Mr. John McCarthy preside at one of the meetings? A—Yes.

HEARD TALK OF FUND

Q—Was there some discussion of a 1940 campaign fund for Mr. Connolly? A—Yes, Mr. McCarthy said there was a fund to be made up in some way.

Q—Did he mention some amount? A—Yes, $20,000.

Q—Did he state any method or means of raising this fund? A —Not that I recall.

Cross-examined by Atty. Sisson, Miss Crowley testified she did not take any part in Connolly's election campaign of 1936.

Q—You knew you were being fired from a good job? A—Yes.

Q—So you talked with your brother to see what you could do? A—Yes.

Q—You talked with Mr. Connoly's father, too, didn't you? A—Yes, after I was reinstated. I saw him at his store in Roxbury.

Q—Wasn't the conversation along this line, that you told the elder Mr. Connolly you were grateful to him for interceding with his son to get your job back? A—Yes.

Q—You felt he had gone to bat for you, didn't you? A—I thought he did.

MADE GIFT OF CLOCK

Q—In a conversation with the younger Mr. Connolly after you were back at work, didn't you say to him, "What a wonderful man your father is?" A—Yes.

Q—Did you ever make a gift to the elder Mr. Connolly? A—Yes; I felt obligated to him. I gave him a clock to put in his store.

Miss Crowley's brother, John, took the witness stand after she had concluded her testimony.

He identified himself as employed in the Boston city paving department at City Hall.

Q (by Asst. Dist. Atty. Doyle)—You know William T. Conway? A—Yes, 15 to 18 years.

Q—Do you know John Patrick Connolly? A—I met him only twice.

Q—Did you learn your sister had severed her connection with the clerk's office? A—Yes.

Q—Did you talk it over with Conway? A—Yes, in my office at City Hall about 10 days after the dismissal.

TALKED WITH CONWAY

Q—What talk did you have? A —I asked Conway if he could do anything to help get my sister's job back. He said he would see John Patrick Connolly and see what he could do. I asked him as a favor to me.

I talked to him a few days later and asked him the result of his talk with Connolly. He said Connolly told him the chances were not very good. I asked him if he thought it would be a good idea if I saw Connolly myself.

Q—Did you see John Patrick Connolly! A—Yes, he told me he was sorry I didn't come earlier. He said he had had to make a lot of changes and if I had come sooner he might have been able to save my sister's job. He said he'd see what he do.

Q—Did you see Conway again? A—Yes, two or three days later. He said there was nothing new. I asked if it was a question of money and said I wouldbe willing to contribute to the campaign fund it was necessary to get my sister back to work. He said nothing.

—Did you see him a fifth time? A—Yes, he said it would cost me $250 to get my sister back.

TURNED OVER MONEY

Q—What did you say? A—I said to see me next day and I would have the money. I got the money from my sister the next morning and was visited by Conway the next afternoon.

Q—What was said? A—I was visited in the corridor outside my office in City Hall as I was on my way to the washroom. There were people in the corridor and I said:

"Step in here and I'll give you the envelope."

Q—Did you tell him what was in it? A—I said:

"Here is what you are looking for?"

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 10¢ and 25¢. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

PUNCHES WIN HER DIVORCE

One wife said her husband kicked her in the eye, and another said her mate punched her at least 25 times, as four wives were given their freedom in Middlesex Probate Court today.

Mrs. Audna E. Larkin of Somerville told Judge Joseph W. Monahan about the kick in the eye which she said Thomas J. Larkin, now of Cambridge, had administered. She was given custody of their two children.

Gertrude V. Williams of Wakefield said her husband used her as a punching bag at least 25 times. She said she had to work during all of her married life.

Mrs. Rose Zella Virginia Berry of Newton said she went on a vacation in 1933 and when she returned was told her husband was going around with another woman. She spoke to him about it.

"He just packed his things and walked out of the house," she said.

She was given a decree on the grounds of desertion.

Blonde Helen Magrer McGaffee of Newtonville was given her freedom after describing her husband's cruelty.

"He was drunk every minute of the time when we had a vacation cottage at the Cape," she said.

He pushed her down the stairs . . . their home and was abusive on numerous occasions, Mrs. McGaffee said.

First Byrd Antarctic Photos in U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The first photographs of the arrival of the government's expedition in the Antarctic have reached Washington, two months after the expedition reached the frozen Bay of Whales.

They were taken to Valparaiso, Chile, on the supply ship North Star, navy officials explained, turned over to the American consul there and then to the naval attache at Santiago. From Santiago they were sped here by air liner.

Earlier pictures were forwarded by steamer from New Zealand, and showed scenes en route to the Antarctic late last fall.

The latest photos (shown today on Pages 1 and 26 of the Boston Evening American) depict the arrival of the North Star and the flagship Bear at the Bay of Whales, where the expedition's west base has been established for a long Antarctic winter stay near the site of the Little America base of an earlier expedition also headed by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.

Leaving Valparaiso two weeks ago with a cargo of supplies, the North Star headed for a point about 700 miles south of South America's Cape Horn, where a rendezvous had been arranged with the Bear. An east base is to be established there.

Films to Illustrate U. S. Housing Story

The story of the present government housing program will be told tonight with the aid of a motion picture by Robert Stickney of the Boston Housing Authority, in an address at Fenway School Center under auspices of the Old Neighbors Club.

The public is invited, William F. Murphy, chairman, announced.

Farley Friends Wait F. D. on Air Tonight

WASHINGTON, March 8 (INS)—President Roosevelt has an opportunity tonight to repudiate before the entire country the report that he opposes the Presidential ambitions of Postmaster General James A. Farley because of his Catholic faith.

The President speaks tonight from the White House over a nationwide radio hookup in celebration of the Administration's first "Farmers' Day." He talks directly to 30,000 farm leaders, gathered at dinners in 22 states, but the nation will hear him.

Farley follows him on the same program but speaks from New York city.

The President was put under some pressure to speak when Rep. Martin J. Kennedy (D.) of New York made public a letter to Governor Herbert H. Lehman of that state, urging him to endorse Farley as New York's favorite son for the presidential nomination. Kennedy urged this step by Lehman as a reply to the report on the President's attitude toward Farley.

Kennedy cited the story of Ernest K. Lindley, Roosevelt biographer, published here Monday, quoting the President as saying he opposed Farley's name on the 1940 ticket because of his religion. Lindley also quoted the President as saying he is ready to retire and favors Cordell Hull as his successor.

SEA QUEEN GUARDS SECRET OF 'GIRDLE'

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—The mystery of the anti-mine cable girdle which sencircles the Queen Elizabeth, and which may be Great Britain's answer to magnetic mines, intrigued naval experts today.

The Cunard White Star line, owner of the $28,750,000, 85,000-ton vessel, the world's newest and largest, made it clear that the device is an admiralty secret.

Line officials would admit nothing except that it is called the "electrical De Gausse" and is named after the Swedish scientist who pioneered its design.

Capt. J. C. Townley, who brought the huge liner through a historic maiden dash to a safe berth yesterday alongside two other "war refugees"—the Cunard's Queen Mary and the French Line's Normandie—would not discuss the device except to say, "I've known about it only five days."

Asked whether it prevented the explosion of any mines, he commented dryly:

"You never know whether you've passed over a mine—unless it goes off."

Magnetic mines have been sown in British coastal waters by German airplanes and submarines. These mines, unlike the usual anchored type, are dropped free and sink to the bottom, and thus must be laid in fairly-shallow coastal zones to be effective.

They are detonated when the steel hull of a ship actuates a magnetic plunger within the mine.

The girdle of 10 to 12 heavily-insulated cables on the Queen Elizabeth are strung on metal fixtures riveted into the plates just below the promenade deck windows.

One naval expert expressed belief the cables set up a field which neutralizes the magnetic mechanism in mines. Thus, a mine attracted to the steel hull would be neutralized or repelled by the cable circuit and would not be brought into contact with the ship.

He also surmised that the device would be effective against more recently developed mines which contain a pendulum set into motion against internal detonators by a steel hull.

Another observer ventured the opinion that the cables form a loop antennae for the transmission of powerful long-wave radio beams sufficient to explode mines.

He pointed out that the ship is large enough to carry a high-powered transmitter, and that American submarines have used radio waves successfully through similar apparatus for other purposes.

The Cunard line, in a statement explaining the ordering of the ship to New York harbor, said in part:

"In view of existing circumstances, it was decided that the ship should proceed to New York, which she did, leaving last Saturday and arriving yesterday after an uneventful voyage at moderate speed.

"Her interior accommodations are not wholly complete, and no plans have been made for the vessel beyond tying her up at Pier 90 with the Queen Mary."

One of the 378 crew members, however, disclosed that "20 marine engineers and naval architects" came over on the ship. That gave rise to speculation that the ship might be completed while in her berth here.

A large police detail kept sightseeing pedestrians away from the pier today. Motorcycle policemen kept traffic moving rapidly. No one, except the few on official business, was permitted to go aboard.

Like the line officials, members of the crew declined to comment on the Queen Elizabeth's cable girdle. One, however, commented:

"It really don't do a blasted thing. It's only there to frighten submarines."

Nearly 30 members of the Queen Elizabeth's crew quit the ship at Greenock, at the mouth of the river Clyde, when they learned they were sailing for New York, one of those who stayed with the liner disclosed. They had signed on, said the crewman, thinking they were going on a commonplace cruise from Greenock to Southampton.

Judge Writes Period To End of the Spree

John Johnson hopefully set out today on a two months' endurance contest, sponsored by Judge Joseph Zottoli of municipal court, which precludes visits to grog shops or police ambulances in his home district of the South End.

Johnson, plucked from the rear of an ambulance as he rested up before attempting to reach his lodgings, was hailed into court on a drunkenness charge, but regained freedom through a spirited plea.

Asked why he climbed into the ambulance, Johnson explained:

"Well, I wasn't sick, judge, leastways not hospital kind of sick, and I figured that here I was, drunk and like to get robbed and if I slept in a police wagon—gosh knows, I didn't know it was an ambulance which might have landed me in a hospital—I'd be safe. I was, too, until the cop came."

Then he added:

"Liquor just makes me come and go, judge. I declare, one minute I'm cold sober and the next I'm drunk and then back again."

Johnson accepted the court's suggestion to lengthen the "cold sober" minute to two months on penalty of serving a like stretch at Deer Island.

FREEDOM loomed for Patricia Caron, lovely Hollywood actress, today after she maintained she knew nothing of film opium rino. She was detained in raid by federal agents because she had been seen with man said to be leader of ring.

$76,000 Fund Urged For Juvenile System

The question of dealing with juvenile criminals was back in the spotlight today after hearings held at the State House by the special committee investigating juvenile laws.

Former Judge Kenneth D. Johnson of Milton called for a change in the law under which two 16-year-old boys recently were sentenced to life terms in state prison. He said:

"The boy who happens to kill a person is no more of an adult than another younster, who, with a couple of drinks of gin in him, gets into a serious automobile accident."

Considered by the commission was a proposal offered by Judge Jennie Loitman Barron of the Boston municipal court, which called for appropriation of $76,000 to install a new juvenile system with six full-time judges and 20 probation officers.

She declared it would save money for the state, which now is paying out $900,000 a year on its parole and training school system.

J. D. Henderson Rites Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held from the Harvard Congregational Church, Brookline, tomorrow at 2 p. m. for James D. Henderson, 56, chairman of the Metropolitan Planning Board, whose wide range of interests extended from banking and real estate to the collecting of miniature books and cancelled checks.

Former president of six banks and a friend of Calvin Coolidge, he was the first "volunteer" policeman during the Boston police strike.

Born in South Boston, a graduate of Mechanic Arts High School, Henderson began his banking career with the Fourth National Bank of Boston. His library of tiny books of all ages contains more than 2500 volumes and is considered the world's largest. Among the works is the smallest Roman Catholic prayerbook in existence.

Japs Delay Trial Of James R. Young

SECRECY MARKS FINN PEACE TALK

nounced every phase of the negotiations, at least as far as could be learned abroad, although indications multiplied that Finland would reject the Russian "peace ultimatum" due to expire tonight.

Minister Tanner told the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet:

"The Finnish government has knowledge that the Soviet government has put forward demands more extensive than those previously presented."

Questioned as to whether Finland would comply, Tanner said:

"It is impossible for me to give a satisfying answer to that question at the moment.

"I may add and confirm that through mediators we have had contact with the Soviet Union and that this contact has not been broken."

DEMANDS HARSH

So far as can be ascertained, the Russian demands made upon Finland are extremely harsh. In contrast to yesterday's version, however, it now appears that the Soviet Union has not demanded outright possession of Hango.

Informed quarters disclosed that the Russians had modified their demand for a naval base at this port even before the outbreak of hostilities last November.

The U. S. S. R., however, appears to demand surrender of large areas of the Karelian Isthmus, including Viipuri and Sortavala, together with stretches of Lapand.

(In yesterday's dispatches Russia was said to have made these demands:

(1—Cession of the Karelian Isthmus, including Viipuri and the Mannerheim line defenses.

(2—Cession of the region north of Lake Ladoga, including the city of Sortavala.

(3—Cession of large portions of Finnish Lapland, including Petsamo harbor and the entire Petsamo area.

(4 Concession on the fortified Peninsula of Hango.)

SECRECY PREVAILS

Upon entering Helsingborg, where the famous Swedish Bofors armament factory is located, I found everything ready for war, with all guns fully manned and ammunition stocked high. The people themselves were calm and seemed almost to wish that some decision, even the most fateful, might come without any further delay to end the present almost intolerable suspense.

The reported negotiations and the atmosphere of extreme secrecy and uncertainty surrounding them threw all Scandinavia into turmoil for fear that the neutral northern countries might find themselves embroiled in either the Russo-Finnish conflict or the war between the western powers.

Rumors persisted, in Helsingfors as well as in Copenhagen, that France and England are seriously considering some major move in the crisis, possibly basing their action on Article XVI of the League covenant, under which a League signatory can be compelled to permit passage of troops going to the aid of another signatory.

(In London official circles disclaimed all knowledge of any such Anglo-French demand upon Sweden.)

GUSTAF OPENED DRIVE

From the information I was able to gather while in Sweden, it appears that the peace negotiations were launched on the initiative of King Gustaf or his government after sounding out the possibilities of Soviet acceptance of any formula falling short of a complete conquest.

It appeared clear that Sweden was making her feverish mediation efforts in a desperate attempt to prevent intervention of Britain and France on behalf of Finland, since such a move might, it was feared, end the strict neutrality so far observed by Germany in the Russo-Finnish conflict.

Renewed assurances that Berlin was remaining aloof from the Russo-Finnish conflict and would continue Germany's policy of neutrality toward this war evidently failed to ease the fears of the northern capitals.

Peculiarly enough, the Swedish public as a whole knows little or nothing of what is going on in Stockholm. The provincial papers I read in Helsingborg today contain only brief cables from London hinting at the general situation.

The Stockholm newspaper, Social Democrat, had as its leading editorial this view:

"We do not know exactly what is occurring, but unless the Finns get an honest peace, it is better for war to continue.

"Should the latter occur, we know how 90 per cent of Sweden's population feels."

HINT AT MORE DEMANDS

The local Helsingborg Dagblad carried a message from Helsinki, quoting authoritative Finnish circles as saying that if the present Russian demands are accepted new demands will be forthcoming in six months.

British Credit Extended for Year

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—The British Treasury issued a £100,000,000 (about $2,800,000,000) vote of credit today to finance war expenditures.

This amount was the estimate of what would be necessary to cover expenses for the year ending March 31, 1941, for the navy, army, air service, ministry of supply and "maintenance of public order and efficient prosecution of the war."

Welles Finds France 'United for Victory'

PARIS, March 8 (AP)—President Roosevelt's one-man fact finding commission, Sumner Welles, continued to tap the French official war attitude today in a whirlwind series of talks with government leaders.

In immediate succession, he was received by Jules Jeanneney, president of the Senate; Edouard Herriot, president of the Chamber of Deputies and former Premier Leon Blum, chief of the Socialist party.

With Jeanneney and Herriot the busy emissary was closeted 45 and 50 minutes, respectively.

Others on the second day's calendar of pulse-taking interviews were Andre De Laboulaye, former French ambassador to Washington; Vice-Premier Camile Chautemps and Minister of Justice Georges Bonnet. That the calls implied more than mere diplomatic formality was taken for granted.

Blum's Socialist Party has the biggest single bloc of votes in the Chamber, and he has advanced from time to time the theory of a Federated Europe after peace returns to the continent.

DALADIER SATISFIED

Premier Daladier, who received Welles for a confidential discussion yesterday, expressed himself today as being "entirely satisfied with my talk."

Welles can arrive at no other conclusion, in the belief of the French press, than that the nation is in a prime state of political health to achieve the allied war aim of victory first—peace later.

As President Roosevelt's emissary embarked on his second day of confidential, fact-finding discussions in the French capital, newspapers commented that his initial interview with Premier Daladier yesterday gave the American undersecretary of state his first opportunity to hear first hand of the political union that is the keystone of the war effort.

LEAVES SUNDAY

Evidence of the nation's internal strength, it was pointed out, is as readily seen in the repeated, unanimous votes of confidence for the Daladier administration and approval of the strong decrees to preserve the national financial and economic position.

Tomorrow Welles will conclude his French survey in a talk with Paul Reynaud, who holds the vital portfolio of finance. Following a visit to the emigre Polish Government at Angers, its Capital, Welles will leave Sunday for London and talks with British leaders.

He is expected to return to Washington by the way of Italy, which will give him another opportunity to talk with Premier Mussolini.

New U. S. China Loan Arouses Japs' Ire

TOKYO, March 8 (INS)—The new $20,000,000 United States loan to China is an unfriendly action in the eyes of the Japanese government, a Tokyo foreign office spokesman said today.

He said the Japanese government took this attitude in view of the fact that the new loan was announced "on the eve of establishment of a new Chinese regime."

Nab Gandhi's Friend For Anti-War Speech

NEW DELHI, March 8 (AP)—A brief dispatch today from Patna reported the arrest of the Indian Socialist Leader Jaiprakash Narain as a result of an anti-war speech. He is general secretary of the All-India Congress Socialist party.

Narain and his wife are personal friends of Mohandas K. Gandhi, Indian Nationalist leader. He is known for organizing a Socialist bloc in Gandhi's Congress party.

Steady Firing Heard Along West Front

By KENNETH T. DOWNS

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY ON THE WESTERN FRONT, March 8 (INS)—While there is yet no indication of a large-scale change in the existing military stalemate, things today are definitely and rapidly "heating up" along the Western Front line areas.

Activity and casualties are increasing all along the line.

An illustration of this is seen in the fact that three army news reel men, formerly Paris newsreel photographers, ran into trouble yesterday. One was killed and two were gravely wounded. Their names are being withheld at present pending notification of their families.

Although the front region is drying rapidly, the rivers are still over their banks and the terrain ranges from deep slop to heavy, spongy mud.

But today artillery fire can be heard constantly in place of the sporadic firing that prevailed during recent months.

The work of deepening the French defenses is going forward at full blast again and trenches, tank traps and other fortifications are being constructed miles behind the front.

There is now almost constant aerial activity.

The French war communique today said:

"An enemy raid failed in the region southeast of the Nied river."

A German raid on a French river Nied outpost was repulsed during the night.

Italy Buys Coal From England

LONDON, March 8 (INS)—Marking an apparent victory for Great Britain in her dispute with Italy over German coal, two Italian steamers en route to Rotterdam today were ordered to proceed to the northeast coast of England to load cargoes of British coal.

The coal controversy reached a climax early this week when British authorities confiscated as war prizes the coal cargoes aboard eight Italian vessels taken into custody on their way to Italy from Rotterdam.

This action was in line with Britain's determination to halt all German exports, despite Premier Mussolini's protest and his insistence that German coal was an Italian national necessity.

In reply, the British government has offered to supply all the coal Italy needs.

Poland Scouted By British Planes

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—The royal air force was reported today to have scouted German-occupied Poland for the first time since Great Britain went to war on account of the German invasion.

The flight was part of reconnaissance and patrol operations "over wide areas of enemy territory" in the course of the night announced today by the air ministry. It was the third consecutive night of such flights.

Nazi Bomber Downed Off North Scotland

LONDON, March 8 (AP)—The air ministry announced a German bomber was shot down today off north Scotland.

The raider was the second victim of the British off Scotland in two days and the 45th on or near the coast since the war began.

POPE PLANNING VISIT

VATICAN CITY, March 8 (AP)—Pope Pius XII is planning to leave the Vatican April 30 to visit the 1000-year-old Church of St. Mary Above Minerva, Vatican sources said today—his fourth trip outside the Vatican for a ceremonial visit in Rome.

QUINCY BOYS TO JOIN FINNS

First of the Finnish youths to enlist from Quincy, Vilho Sabela, of Adams st., and John Hokkanen, 25, of Quarry st., West Quincy, will leave Wednesday for New York and ultimately Finland where they will join the fight against the Russian invasion.

On Sunday night, the youths will be given a reception at the Finnish Lutheran Church of West Quincy, where they will receive the blessing of the pastor, Rev. Armas Helmio.

Two other Finnish youths from Wareham and Hyannis are expected to join those from Quincy on the day of departure. Sabela is manager of the meat department of a Quincy store. He has qualified as an aviator after three years' experience, and has furnished his own outfit, except for the plane. Hokkanen, a steel worker, hopes to join the engineers.

Both are unmarried. Sabela has two brothers and a sister. At the reception on Sunday, the two will receive gifts and donations.

Rev. Helmio, who is in charge of the affair, has raised for the Finnish cause $5000 in cash and seven tons of clothing from West Quincy parishioners and those of St. John's Finnish Lutheran church of Allston, of which he also is pastor.

Jap Congress Hears Young Charges

TOKYO, March 8 (INS)—The case of James R. Young, Tokyo correspondent of International News Service who is scheduled for trial on March 11 on charges of violating the Japanese military code, became a parliamentary issue today.

In reply to interpellations, a spokesman for the government outlined the circumstances of Young's arrest on January 21 on his return from a 9000-mile tour of China.

The charges against Young allege that he violated certain sections of the military code in news dispatches describing conditions in Japanese-occupied China.

Various newspaper publishers and leaders in other walks of American life sent messages to Tokyo today asking official intervention in the case of James R. Young, Tokyo correspondent of International News Service.

Latest word from Young's wife stated that the correspondent's wide circle of friends and acquaintances all were hopeful over the outcome of the proceedings.

FINN FUND HERE TOPS $100,000

Massachusetts' contributions for Finnish refugees rose above the $100,000 mark with receipt of a $1162.57 check from Hingham residents, the Finnish Relief Fund Inc., announced today.

Formally accepting the donation from Rev. J. Harry Hooper, head of the Hingham committee, State Chairman Harvey H. Bundy said total contributions for Massachusetts amount to $102,932.66.

Bunday declared the need for relief for Finland now has become more acute than ever, adding:

"The people of Massachusetts have been very generous, but I can only hope for the sake of the Finns that our first $100,000 will have been the hardest and that the universal sympathy will continue to be expressed concretely."

2 Face Lowell Vice Charges

LOWELL, March 8—Charged with maintaining a disorderly house directly across the street from the main entrance of the Lowell High School, a Lowell man was haled into district court here today as police continued a drive on vice conditions in the city.

Edward J. Matthews, 48, of Paige st., was held in $500 bond for hearing March 15 by Judge Patrick J. Reynolds after he had pleaded not guilty to the charge against him.

Held on another and more serious morals charge, 22-year-old Roland J. Giroux of Marsh st., Lowell, at first attempted to make a guilty plea, then changed it to not guilty on advice of a court-appointed defense counsel.

His case also was continued to March 15.

Reds See Pole Fate for Finns

MOSCOW, March 8 (INS)—A warning that Finland is "going the way of Beck's Poland" was delivered by the Moscow radio today.

(Editor's Note—Josef Beck, foreign minister of Poland before the Russo-German occupation, led the resistance to Germany's first demands upon his country.)

The broadcaster made no mention of Russo-Finnish peace negotiations. He declared:

"Finland must accept responsibility for her actions. Everything that has occurred and the consequences that will follow can be traced directly to Franco-British provocation."

CITIZENSHIP QUIZ FOR 4 IN TAX CASE

Immigration authorities, it was learned today, are investigating the citizenship of four men, indicted by the federal grand jury with Martin Hays of Allston, former Republican floor leader of the House, on charges of income tax evasion.

Under investigation are Louis B. Fox of Goodwin ave., Revere; Hyman Abrams of Tudor st., Chelsea; Mario Ingraffia of Cranston, R. I., formerly of Waban and now said to be at Miami Beach, and Arthur G. Barron of Carol ave., Allston.

Should it be found that any of the four is not a citizen of the United States, it was learned today from immigration officials, he will be deported under the "moral turpitude" laws in the event that he is convicted of the charged tax evasion and receives a penitentiary sentence.

According to the immigration authorities all claim to be citizens, but there has been no proof forthcoming.

Immigration and court records list Fox as having been born in England.

Abrams, who is carried in the court records as "Hyman Abramovitz, Hyman Abrahams and Hyman Abrams," is listed as having been born in Russia, while Ingraffia's birthplace is given in court records as Italy.

Barron is said by immigration officials to claim England as his birthplace.

Lures Schoolgirl, 9, Shoots Her, Himself

MANSFIELD, O., March 8 (AP) — Nine-year-old Majorie Gamble, taken by pretext was shot and killed in her own home by a man who turned the gun on himself.

Sheriff E. P. Long, of Richland County, said the slaying occurred while the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Gamble, left their farm at nearby Lexington for a shopping trip to Mansfield.

The child's body was found on a bed in the room of Theodore Smith, 27-year-old farm hand employed by Gamble. Smith's body, a bullet hole in the forehead, was found in the first floor living room of the home. The girl was shot in the right breast.

Smith's room was in wild disarray and most of the girl's clothing had been torn from her body. Coroner Hugh C. Winbigler said that apparently the man attempted to assault the child but she was able to fight off his advances.

Smith went to a rural school shortly before noon, Long said he was told, and told the teacher of Marjorie's fourth-grade class that the girl's mother was seriously ill and had asked that she be sent home.

WHAT'S UP?—Sonja Henie, skate star, denied Dan Topping, her escort of late, was passenger aboard ship on which she left Los Angeles for Honolulu, but inquiry revealed he had booked passage and was expected to board ship in San Francisco.

Name Big Problem to This Family

CLEVELAND, March 8 (AP)—Finding a name for their 7½-pound boy born today presented a real problem to Constantino Romito, 55, and his wife, Marietta, 47. The new baby is their 21st child in 33 years of married life.

"Each time it gets harder to find a name," said the mother. "We've named so many."

Nineteen of the Romitos' children are living, eight sons and 11 daughters. The oldest, a son, is 29, said Papa Romito, proprietor of a tobacco and confectionery shop, "thank God we are all well. No sickness. Only one of my sons has a job. But we are all healthy."

"Boston After Dark," by George Holland, appears every day in the Boston American.

Kane in Probe Of Cell Suicide

Mayor William Kane of Woburn today pressed an investigation of the death of Joseph B. Hamilton, 40, of Wilmington, father of six, in a cell at the Woburn police station.

Using his belt, Hamilton committed suicide by hanging, according to Medical Examiner John M. Wilcox. Mayor Kane declared he failed to understand how a man could commit suicide with police on duty nearby. He personally questioned several members of the force.

Hamilton's body was found by Sergt. John F. McCarthy when the sergeant came on duty and made a tour of the station. McCarthy cut down the body and summoned the medical examiner.

At the time of Hamilton's arrest Police Chief Charles McCauley was absent in Worcester, at a convention. The Woburn police headquarters is used by Wilmington police for their prisoners.

Middleboro Children Create Penny Famine

MIDDLEBORO, March 8—School children versed in the penny-saved-penny-earned adages today learned that the saved penny has great powers.

So intense was a campaign of the children for funds for new musical instruments that the town ran dry of pennies.

The Middleboro Trust Company appealed to Musical Supervisor Luther Churchill and put some 9000 pennies back in circulation.

BLAMES UNION EMBARGO

WITH BYRD AT LITTLE AMERICA

Graphic Pictorial Account of Expedition's Work at South Pole

Work!—The Admiral Byrd Antarctic Expedition has little time for play in the frigid wastes of Little America. Here crewmen load sled for trip into "interior." Note open sea at right.

Unloading of plane from Byrd ship was tedious work. It was used for charting terrain from air. Note sled dogs in foreground. These pictures have just been released by Navy Department.

Lonely picture is this of a base tent on the wind-swept Antarctic plains. From a shelter like this Byrd's men explore surrounding country . . . all snow and ice-covered.

Ground-Breaking for FHA's Low-Cost Homes in 10 Days

Ground will be broken within 10 days on the site of an 80-house, federal low-cost-home-building project within the limits of Boston proper, the Boston Evening American learned today.

Actual construction of the new homes, ranging in cost from $1800 to $3000, will begin as soon as weather permits, Federal Housing Administration officials stated.

They said that a Greater Boston site for a second low-cost building project has been selected and plans for construction sent to Washington for final approval.

In issuing today's FHA bulletins here, federal officials congratulated the Boston Evening American on the amazing public response which followed this newspaper's original articles describing the proposed $2400-price-range homes and the easy finance plans offered prospective owners.

In the lowest price range of the approved types of FHA homes is a one-story dwelling approximately 24 feet square, with a 12 by 24-foot combination living room, dining room and kitchen.

This house has an 8¼ by 12 bedroom, a 10 by 12 bedroom, a bathroom and two good-sized bedroom closets.

Homes of this type have been built for substantially less than $3000.

In the next price range, between $2000 and $2500, homes may be slightly larger, with kitchen and dinette partitioned off from the living room.

Then for $2500 or more construction cost, exclusive of the price of the land, the FHA offers plans for several types of a story and a half or two-story dwellings.

These have slightly smaller ground dimensions, averaging about 20 by 22 feet square.

One type has living room, kitchen, utility room and dining alcove on the first floor, three bedrooms and bath on the second floor.

Typical financing of a $2500 home on a 25-year basis calls for a monthly payment of $13.90 on principal and interest, $1.01 month mortgage insurance premium, and an additional monthly sum ranging from $5 to $10 for local taxes and fire insurance.

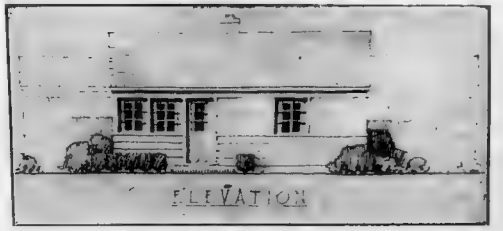
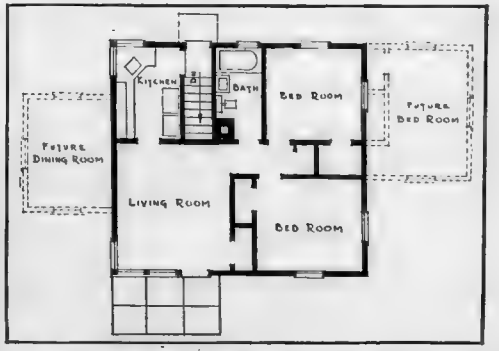
$1800 to $3000 Houses Planned for Average Families

Valuation, $3000—Another home that is winning tremendous interest is the above . . . built for Mr. Maxey B. Smith at Barnesville, Ga., at a cost of $3000, with mortgage of $2700. Monthly payments, excluding taxes and hazard insurance, are $18.39. The house has two bedrooms, bath, dining room, kitchen, large living room and terrace.



Future Planned—With an eye to additions in the future, this house is uniquely the interest of the growing family . . . and is priced under $3000 in the Boston area. See plans below . . .



Well Laid-Out—Careful attention has been paid by the architect to the layout of rooms . . . with mind on efficiency and accessibility. The dotted lines show where future additions can be made.

NO GREATER PROOF of how onerous levies of taxes on the middle and well-to-do classes are paid for by the workers of America has been adduced than the answers to the questionnaire that Representative Bruce Barton circulated among a group of "typical middle-class business men" with incomes ranging from $6000 to $40,000 a year.

The question was: "What would you do if the government levied a 10 per cent increase in income taxes to finance 'economic defense'?"

Here is what Mr. Barton found:

Sixty per cent would cut down on entertainment—in their homes and clubs, at theaters, restaurants, etc.

Fifty-three per cent would reduce their savings.

Forty per cent would cut contributions to charities.

Forty per cent would buy less wearing apparel.

Thirty-three per cent would postpone purchase of the 1940 car.

DANIEL SAPHORE WITH NINE OF HIS 14 CHILDREN
"Gets By" on $28 a week. He Could Hardly Live on Less

Twenty-seven per cent would abandon or postpone plans to buy electrical refrigerators and other appliances.

Twenty per cent would buy no more new furniture.

Thirteen per cent would postpone home repairs.

Seven per cent would get along with fewer servants.

Thirteen per cent would give up the idea of more life insurance.

"In a word, there is hardly a single form of industry, hardly a professional or semi-professional service that would not feel the effects of this added burden on the middle class," Mr. Barton asserted.

This is precisely what happens IN EVERY CASE where taxes are raised over the normal levels.

These rises strike directly at the wage-earners' envelopes. They strike at the housewife's weekly allowance. They add to relief rolls. They shake the morale of the workers by making them more dependent—either on a lower wage or no wage.

And the principal, though possibly indirect sufferers always are families like that of Daniel Saphore of Carlisle, Pa., shown in the interesting picture.

Bringing nine of his fourteen children to see Massachusetts Congressman Joe Martin the other day, Mr. Saphore told how he stretched his $28 weekly salary to provide food, clothing and other necessities for his wife, twelve sons and two daughters.

He could hardly get by with less money.

Instead of a 10 per cent increase in taxes there should be SLASHES of 10 to 20 per cent.

There is nothing more certain than that such a series of slashes everywhere throughout the country would put millions to work and tap the frozen billions in our bank vaults.

YOUNG LAW-BREAKERS often experience the vengeance of angered society and pay for their crimes in jails and penitentiaries. But there is always a serious question whether they are actually the real sufferers.

Too often the ones who bear the principal burden of shame and sorrow are the young law-breakers' mothers.

There was convincing proof of this a few days ago in Georgetown.

A weeping woman entered the town's Savings Bank and insisted on paying the treasurer $903.30. It was, she explained, half the amount taken during a holdup by four young men, two of whom were her sons.

The other half was to be expected as soon as she and her husband could accumulate it.

When informed that the bank's loss had been covered by insurance, the mother instructed that the money be forwarded to the underwriters.

It is hard to understand how sons of a woman so honest and conscientious could ever go wrong.

Down His Alley

A BOTTLE baby, mamma says, I am not any more, but if that's true, it's something that I never knew before . . . This bottle something seems to hold that's very good, I know . . . and once it gets inside me, I am sure that I will grow . . . It's true my tummy may not be as big as my two eyes . . . But that can't scare me off from tackling something twice my size . . . If problems of the future years as simple are as this . . . I'll take them in my stride, I guess; no chances will I miss.

Human Side of News -:- By EDWIN C. HILL

THERE ARE far horizons and lost horizons, too, over on the human side of the news. Nobody knows where and when the Indians got the swastika, but it was theirs ages before Adolf Hitler grabbed it, and now they are angry at its "desecration." Four Arizona tribes renounce it forever and, with a solemn ceremony, burn blankets, baskets and clothing bearing the emblem.

It has always been a symbol of well-being, of friendship and good will, from the days of the Bronze Age, possibly earlier, when it was crudely scratched on implements and weapons. The small transverse bars on the Indian swastika run in opposite direction to those of Nazi emblem.

IT HAS been suggested that the Nazis unintentionally symbolized the turning back of the wheel of progress and well-being when they reversed their swastika. This does not appear to be supported by the somewhat meagre evidence which anthropologists have gathered.

The swastika has been turned left or right by various peoples, but always has stood for well-being and progress.

It is perhaps the oldest of known human symbols, far antedating the ancient Greek border as a detail of decoration. The Papagos, Navajos, Hopis and Apaches, who now forswear and burn it, are ancient peoples, but the swastika was old long before their tribes were formed.

THE SWASTIKA
Enthroned in Berlin

In South American ruins it has appeared on utensils of a period far earlier than that of the Toltecs and Aztecs, peoples whose origins fade far into dim, long-forgotten centuries.

Its dispersal throughout the world has been one of the mysteries of archaeology. It was one of the sacred symbols of Jainism, which preceded Buddhism, in India. It spread, probably from India, through Tibet, China and Japan. It was noted and described in early Sanskrit writings. It was found, used decoratively, in the ruins of Troy.

Symbols have far less meaning for us than they did for mediaeval or ancient man. Dean William Graham Sumner, in "Folkways," his classic study of the remote origins and inducements of human behaviour, ascribes this to the fact that modern man has pictures, and we no longer need the graphic suggestive power of the symbol.

HE and other authorities in this field agree that any symbol, deeply rooted in the race life, is essentially a mass stimulus, and that even a benign symbol, as the swastika always has been, may become an incitement to orgiastic crowd emotion, cruelty and barbarity.

Even the quick surface view of our tribal history shows that every great mass psychosis has been unleashed by a symbol. There could be none without it. I recently heard an intelligent friend deplore the fact that democracy never seemed to work up inspiriting symbols like other forms of government.

Perhaps it is just as well, considering the fact that a venerated symbol may be snatched by lunatics and killers.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -:- -:- MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, March 8—I came to New York city Tuesday morning in order to see my aunt, Mrs. David Gray, who is sailing this week with her husband, our new Minister to Ireland. I cannot say that I shall see them go very cheerfully, for I like to have them in this country. But Mr. Gray loves Ireland and I know will enjoy his time there very much.

I had a few engagements in the afternoon and then went to the dinner given by the "National Sharecropper Week" and gave the prizes for essays written by high school students on the sharecropper situation. I must, however, tell you about a book which I finished on the plane last Sunday.

THE BOOK is called "Stricken Field" by Martha Gellhorn. Here is a foreign correspondent's story which could not perhaps be written for the daily newspapers, for the reason that the correspondent writing it would be thrown out of the foreign country and would cease to have a job. This is a picture of stark tragedy painted by the use of simple events in ordinary lives which are important to the individuals concerned, but which count for little in history.

The book is a masterpiece as a vivid picture. It is not a novel, it is just daily life under the kind of circumstances which, thank God, we do not know in the United States.

DISCUSSING CONDITIONS ON TENANT FARMS
Mrs. Roosevelt, John R. Butler and Newbold Morris

IT IS IMPORTANT to us, every one of us, to understand what happens to the individual forced to live under such circumstances and to those other individuals who through force and fear rule people in such a manner. If we lack this knowledge, we cannot understand what is happening in Europe today.

I strongly recommend the reading of "Stricken Field," not for pleasure, though it is very well written, but because you will know vividly the fear of the little people all over the world.

Wednesday I was unable to finish telling you about the other things which happened on Monday, so I must go back and say that in the afternoon, I visited the Crippled Children's Unit at Gallinger Hospital where the Twentieth Century Club has equipped a room for occupational therapy and has also installed a library.

On the way home, I stopped at an art exhibit which is being held at the Mayflower Hotel by Princess Guerifli for the benefit of the Polish Refugee Relief Fund. In the evening we had our annual dinner with the Cabinet.

They always have a delightful dinner for us.

MISS ADLER INSPIRES HULL ADVICE

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, March 8—Stella Adler went to Washington on Monday, to entertain at the Cabinet's dinner to the President . . . Later, Miss Adler, Laurette Taylor, Eddie Dowling and the rest of the Broadway contingent were invited to supper at the White House When Stella entered the dining-room she didn't know where to sit—and said: "What's this? No place-card? No escort?" . . . Whenever you come here," Cordell Hull advised, "don't start complaining right away, little lady."

SONG: In Warner Bros. production of Louis Bromfield's "And It All Came True," Ann Sheridan portrays a blues-singer. The song written especially for her was called "Angels in the Skies." . . . Because of Miss Sheridan's unusual diction, it sounded like "Angels in Disguise," even after long rehearsals . . . And so the lyricist was summoned to rewrite the lyrics, and the song will be released as "Angel in Disguise."

MARGOT GRAHAME

BENEFIT: Margot Grahame the actress who married into the millionaire MacMartin family, will go to Bermuda for a vacation shortly. In preparation for her trip, she went to a costume company, and ordered a copy of one of the gowns—complete with all petticoats—worn by Vivien Leigh in "Gone With The Wind" . . . The gown and each petticoat will be sold, at a Bermuda benefit show, at auction.

GREETING: Giovanni Martinelli came into Fefe's Monte Carlo, and Felix Ferry approached his table . . . "Signor Martinelli," Ferry began, "since you're in Fefe's Monte Carlo, you really should meet Fefe" . . . "Very well," the singer agreed. "Where is Fefe?" . . . "Signor Martinelli," Ferry beamed, clasping the singer's hands, "I am Fefe."

AMBITION: Because Mrs. James Farley loves her husband so much, she is not anxious to see him burdened with the heavy cares attendant upon being President of this country . . . A friend assured her that he was campaigning for Farley, "because I'm such a good friend of yours, and so I'll be able to get into the White House" . . . "If you're such a good friend of mine," replied Mrs. Farley, "you should try to keep him out of there."

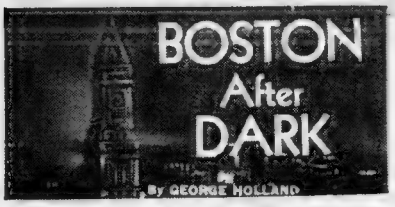
CHOICE: Jack Kirkland, author of "Tobacco Road," returned from Hollywood after rejecting a fabulous offer for the movie rights. The deal failed to be negotiated because Kirkland demanded a clause deferring the movie release for at least two years. The New York company and the road companies still are profitable ventures, whose life would be terminated by any movie release . . . "I'd rather have $100 a week for life," Kirkland explained, "than a million dollars tomorrow."



ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Court attaches say that the demand for seats at the Connolly trial is the strongest of this judicial season . . . If Kitty Brando succeeds in taking over the Brown Derby, she will have the best wishes of her estranged husband, Tony . . . The beautiful home in an exclusive section of Brookline which the Brandoes occupied when they were mated happily is for sale—at a bargain . . . But if Kitty's bid for the Brown Derby is accepted, and the auguries are favorable, Tony as one of the selling partners, will get enough money to save the property and its lovely gardens . . . The gardens were created by Signor Brando, one of the best of the local landscapers.

THAT SEEMINGLY STRANGE TWAIN OF avocations, gardening and bossing a night-club, is not peculiar to Brando alone . . . Angelo Lippi, an important figure in the operation of the Cocoanut Grove as the spot's irreplaceable maitre'd and steward, is almost psychopathic in his love for flowers . . . He grows rare plants and shrubs at the former Lotta Crabtree estate in Jamaica Plain, which Angelo now owns . . . Incidentally, M. Lippi, who has been convalescing in Florida, returned to Boston last night and will be back at the Grove Monday night.

WHEN THE RESULTS OF THE BAR EXAMS are announced tomorrow or Saturday, the name of John "Tip" Tobin will be found among the first ten . . "Tip" is the Boston boy who starred as a pitcher for Fordham and served a brief sentence with the Terry Giants . . . His father is Larry Tobin, who is known from Boston to California in sporting circles . . . Young Tobin sailed through the examinations and was among the small group who proved so proficient in the written tests that taking the "orals" was unnecessary . . . The sixth Galvin girl, daughter of Council President William J. Galvin, will be christened Nancy and not Martha . . . Because the baby was born Washington's Birthday, the name of the country's first No. 1 Dame was an early suggestion.

VARIETY IS OUT with a story that Joseph P. Kennedy may "return to the film industry as head of one of the large producer-distributors" . . . A publicity release which includes a short biography of Garson Kanin, Hollywood's 1939 "wonder-boy" among the directors, quotes Garson as follows in explaining that although he comes from New York, he doesn't regard it as the "hub of the universe:" "What did I ever get out of the subway but a poke in the ribs?" . . . The author of the interview then concludes: "That gives you an idea of why he makes comedies that in turn makes you laugh!" . . . Gives WHO an idea?

WHILE ON THE SUBJECT of "wonder-boys" we might call attention to the trouble his sponsors are alleged to be having with Orson Welles . . . The prodigy has accomplished exactly nothing in exchange for the huge sum of money RKO laid at his feet in exchange for his services as director, producer, author and star of a picture . . . There have been re-current announcements of Welles' change in plans, but no picture—not any kind of a picture—has been "canned" as yet.

Now, we hear, that Orson's current radio sponsors

SHEARER, RAFT NEW FILM COMBINATION

By Louella O. Parsons

Norma Shearer

HOLLYWOOD, March 8—The widely publicized romance of Norma Shearer and George Raft will be used as a come-hither box office move. Remember I said in this very column some months ago that there was talk of remaking "A Free Soul," Adela Rogers St. John's story which Norma played so long ago with Lionel Barrymore and Clark Gable. Well, it's more than idle chatter for George has actually been loaned to M-G-M by Warners and the picture will be made, possibly as Norma's next.

The deal is interesting because in the very beginning Metro was opposed to the Shearer-Raft combination, believing that such publicity might hurt Norma. But instead of hurting her it has helped her, for the whole world is interested in this pair, who now make no secret that it's love.

FLORENCE RICE

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: The rumors that Florence Rice and Robert Wilcox are saying au revoir are denied by Florence herself, who says it was only a family misunderstanding and all is well again; Lya Lys and her bridegroom, John Gunderson, are no longer seeing eye to eye, according to current rumors; Richard Greene has scarcely left the Hollywood hospital since Virginia Field moved in for a sinus operation; Dick Foran limped into the House of Murphy. He narrowly escaped death when he fell off his horse and was trampled on; Ruth Nolander, for many years Joseph Schenck's private secretary and much loved in the picture industry, underwent a serious operation yesterday.

SONJA HENIE, her mother, brother and sister-in-law left on the Matsonia for Honolulu. Dan Topping, as we said, joins the party in San Francisco and—yes, you're right—it's love; contrary to all rumors, Anita Louise and Buddy Adler have not broken up. She gets back Wednesday and he's still head man; Mrs. Lorna Hearst hostessed a cocktail party for Ruth and Paul Zuckerman yesterday. No wonder we're staying away from the scales today for we went on from Lorna's party to the Little Hungary with Daisy and Paul Lucas. He ordered all the Hungarian delicacies—and what food!

TWO-MINUTE STORY

BERT JUDSON is dead. No doubt he had it coming to him. The men who were riding with him the night he was killed still wake, shaking and wet with the cold sweat of terror.

Bert was out for a thrill. Liquor warmed his stomach and dulled his wits. Roaring along at 80 wasn't exciting enough so he decided to zig-zag and give the men a scare. He had often succeeded. That's why many of his pals no longer rode with him.

But tonight the old car gave up in mechanical despair. After one terrific wrench on the wheel it locked and—smash!—car met tree. The wheel punctured Bert's lungs, and his life leaked out before the echoes of the crash had died away.

AT HOME, his wife, young, thin and pathetically in love, waited with the two babies. Often Bert left her alone far into the night, always insisting that she remain up for his return. Usually he was "fighting mad" when he came stumbling in—but she was glad to have him home.

Neighbors whispered that often she was hungry. Only the winter before she had nearly burned the house to the ground one night when he was away.

In the country everyone rushes to a fire and they finally extinguished it. When asked the reason for having a fire hot enough to cause such a blaze, she said she was trying to pop corn. It was all there was for supper.

WHEN they brought her the news of Bert's death, she took it quietly. But since that hour she hasn't eaten. Her face is white, her skin gossamer-thin, and her eyes like those of a stricken, faithful dog.

"Eating her heart out for that worthless scamp," say the neighbors.

Can you write a story as good as this? Do it NOW. Send it to Two-Minute Story Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston. Writer of week's best story gets five dollars.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

HARRIET'S HEART is broken—again! She has just discovered that her husband lied to her.

After loving and trusting him and giving up the best years of her youth to him, and calling him at the office about five times a day to give him orders, what do you suppose that miserable pup up and did?

Told her over the phone that he was in conference and couldn't possibly go out and help her choose the new linoleum. Then, when she walked in on him 15 minutes later, she found him sitting in on a little game of poker with Fred Collins and a couple of stenogs!

Which most of my female readers will immediately admit is enough to bust any good, true, refined lady wife's heart.

But, if it's my last act, I'm going to say that in my opinion, IT SERVED HER RIGHT!

IF I HAD a wife (or a husband) who was always tagging around after me and keeping tabs on me and otherwise pestering me, I'D LIE TOO.

That isn't dishonesty. It's merely self-preservation. And if there is any place a Self needs preserving, it's in matrimony.

We DON'T own our husbands, and they don't own us. We're separate and distinct individualities, united in one of the forms of partnership of which humans are capable—marriage.

IF YOU WANT to enter into the intimate affairs of your husband's life, GET YOURSELF INVITED. You'll be invited fast enough if you prove yourself a necessity and a joy. There's nothing a man likes more than a sympathetic audience and a sensible adviser who knows enough not to advise—which is what any sensible adviser should do.

But DON'T expect to get results by bullying and DON'T DEMAND DETAILS.

It's bad enough to have to spend ten hours on the rock piles without having to describe each individual rock you've smashed.

Furniture Deal $332 Is Repaid

Brought before Judge Joseph A. Zottoli in municipal court on a default warrant, Norbert Koerner of the West End paid all but $90 of a total of $422 he was ordered to turn over in restitution to Thomas di Matteo of Governor Winthrop rd., Somerville, the record showed today.

Di Matteo claimed Koerner agreed to sell him a set of furniture at wholesale price, but failed to make delivery as specified.

Found guilty of larceny, Koerner was given to Feb. 28 to make restitution. His failure to do so resulted in his rearrest and the partial payment accepted by Di Matteo and the court.

Judge Zottoli gave Koerner until March 13 to complete full restitution.

"Perfect Crime" Jury Still in Deadlock

LOS ANGELES, March 8 (INS)—Reported deadlocked, 8 to 4, the superior court jury deliberating the fate of Dr. George K. Dazey, 42, Santa Monica physician charged with the "perfect crime" murder of his wife, Doris, took up its task again today.

The jury of 10 men and two women received the case Wednesday. Dr. Dazey was charged with having killed his wife by using carbon monoxide gas from the family automobile after a quarrel.

Spring Coming Right on Time

SPRING is coming to Boston.

The weatherman said today the sun will enter one of the two equinoxial points—the vernal equinox—when the day and the night are the same length at 1:24 p. m., March 20.

At that exact moment, Spring will arrive.

Until that time, he added, Boston can look forward to seasonable temperatures around the 30's. The forecast for today and Saturday is slightly cloudy weather with little change in temperature.

But don't let four feet of snow in the street : : l you. SPRING is just around the corner!

Carpenter, 66, to Wed 18-Year-Old Girl

SAN JOSE, Cal., March 8 (INS)—James Shelton, 66, a carpenter, who will marry 18-year-old Delta Palmer today, said his first wife was only 14 when he married her at Oklahoma City in 1924. She died eight years ago.

"I don't like old ladies—I like 'em young and lively," Shelton declared.

ENOUGH TOO MUCH

Dear Sir—I am heartily sick of pictures and stories having to do with the following: Princess Baga and all her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Richard "Stand-On-Head" Knight, Ann Sheridan and Harvard goons, Tommy Manville, Vivien Leigh, John Barrymore and Dominic DiMaggio. I can add to this list if you wish.

CAPABLE OF PEACE

Dear Sir—My son at Yale writes me as follows:

"You said in your letter, 'You have a chance to try your hand at peace. You have the chance to do the things that our generation messed up so frightfully. The chance to rule the world by peace, not the sword.'

"I do hope from the bottom of my heart that we do have a chance at peace. It is true that every generation of man has produced wars and the scourges of wars—and we must be optimists if we expect to escape the same fate. You fought a war and now we are observing one. I pray that we will not have to fight one—that we shall be able to live in peace and show ourselves capable of peace and ruling through it. Yet there is not peace now and, as you pointed out, there is little immediate hope for it. Must we fight that we may gain peace with which to rule? I hope not."

I think youth feels pretty much the same generally.

L. W., South Shore.

Snowed-In Everett Schools Ire Mayor

In a slap at the local school committee, Mayor Frank E. Lewis of Everett, today blamed school department heads for failure to remove snow from sidewalks around school properties.

"Snow removal work is expensive,' he said. "We are doing the best we can in the city and I feel that the school department could have co-operated to the extent of clearing their own property."

His blast followed a fire at the Lafayette school, in Shute st., yesterday, when 614 pupils had to flee through snow drift.

Supt. of School Frederick A. Ashley demanded that the public works department clear snow from all school properties today.

The mayor's reply placed the snow removal problem back in the laps of the school committee.

"They have had a week in which to remove snow," said he. "If they had a true spirit of co-operation they would have pitched in and helped. They have enough janitors to do the work."

85,000 Tons Of Gooseflesh

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The world's largest fugitive came up the Hudson river yesterday. She is the Queen Elizabeth.

She is 85,000 tons of haunted house afloat.

She goes into the mercantile Sargasso sea of frightened ocean greyhounds chased by the electric rabbit of war.

It would have been a nice trip over on the Bremen and back on the Queen Elizabeth. Just one glorious round of gooseflesh.

P. S.—The royal suite these days is in the first lifeboat.

have decided to call it a day, and that there will be an early termination of their contract . . . Accordingly, this seems as any to attribute our bit to the confusion over Welles . . . In our opinion, Orson Welles is one of the truly great talents of the American scene . . . He is a great actor, a splendid director and a first-class writing man . . . He is 24 now . . . We predict that before he's 30, Orson Welles will be an outstanding figure in the entertainment world . . . There's an "if," two in fact . . . One is that Mr. Welles obtains some organization of his talents . . . The other is "if" he keeps his health.

APPROVED TECHNIQUE FOR CATCHING PIES: Charlie Chase, the film comic who is working in "Worth a Million," has upset our notions of the famed Keystone comedies. "We never used custard-pies in the Keystones," Charles declared. "We threw and caught berry-pies or pies with dark filling" . . . The custard-pie is a comparatively recent development . . . of 242 comedies he made for Mack Sennett and Hal Roach, 195 of them held pie-throwing scenes. "The first test of a comedian was his ability to 'take a pie'," said Charles. You mustn't flinch or duck . . . You must keep what the trade calls a 'dead pan' until the moment of contact.

Love And Marriage

They View Life Like a Dance

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Is life like a dance?—and nothing more?

There are certain young people nowadays who seem to think so.

A girl accepts a good-looking partner, whirls about with him for a year or two, then relaxes her interest as she sees somebody approaching who is even better-looking, even more magnetic, and who has the air of being about to cut in.

CHANGE PARTNERS

A few months later, after a couple of divorces, four young dancers—shall I call them?—have changed partners. Nobody has suffered. This is the second movement of the modern dance.

But can this really be marriage? you will ask me. Because in such a scheme of things, the most important part of marriage seems to be left out. What about love?

The truth is that sooner or later, love has to be taken into account.

There is the case of Vivian, a girl I know personally. Vivian married. But marriage meant nothing in particular to her or to her rich young husband. They were a handsome pair, with no responsibilities and no children. They simply joined in the dance.

After a year or two, they fell apart. Oh yes, there was another man. And another girl. A change of partners. That was all.

THEN A THIRD MARRIAGE

But Vivian's was an extreme case. In a year or two more, she went through another divorce. And she had her third marriage.

This time, it was different. But nobody knew. Vivian couldn't have told that at least she was married in the real sense. The people she knew wouldn't have understood, wouldn't have believed. She couldn't have explained that at last she knew love. To her, her husband was her universe.

It was, I am sure, a perfect marriage. And it lasted less than a year.

Vivian's husband was killed in a motor-accident.

THE MOST DESOLATE

At 28, she is the most desolate woman I know, the most hopelessly lonely. Her friends do not understand her grief, as they did not understand her happiness. To them, she is a girl who is for the moment without a dancing partner. The world is full of partners. A girl with Vivian's attractions and with a little fortune of her own has merely to choose.

There are a small group of course, numerically, these strangers to love, these dancers on the surface of life. Because they are young and moneyed and for the most part good-looking, they are thought fortunate. But can there be any supreme good fortune that leaves love out of account? You and I know better.

Debs in Club Style Show

What the well dressed promenader will wear Easter Sunday was the theme of a fashion show and luncheon at the Women's City Club yesterday.

Debutante Sandy Matz won a round of applause when she stepped on the runway modelling a gray wool dress trimmed with white flower petals, white gloves and a white open-work turban.

Dorothy Comstock and Carolyn Cosby modelled striking evening gowns for the whirl of after Easter parties and Debutante Catharine Ross did justice to several handsome Easter parade costumes.

Lunching together and enjoying the show were Mrs. Hugh Bancroft with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Hugh, Jr.; Mrs. A. Barr Comstock, Mrs. Alexander Macomber, Mrs. Edward Bowman, who was in charge of the floral decorations on the luncheon tables; Mrs. Henry Lee Higginson, Mrs. Frankl in W. Hobbs, with her daughter, Rebekah, Miss Lavinia Sabine, Mrs. James Torbet and many others.

Smart Set Fashions

YOU CAN CHECK and double-check this season, as you will see by walking down Tremont st., where at least one window is devoted entirely to very smart spring frocks and ensembles in black and white squares . . .

Brenda Marshall, that new fillum thrill, wears a demure dinner dress of ankle length in the photograph at the left, which shows that Hollywood, too, goes for checks (not the rubber kind) in a big way . . . this is of grosgrain, the style stolen from the eighties; it is sophisticated in its simplicity and emboldened by the scarlet bib showing through those notches in the bodices, and the scarlet belt.

Your checks may be small or large, quiet or bold . . . but you may wear them in coats, suits, extra jackets, afternoon dresses and glamour gowns, and be sure that you are right for 1940.

Birthday Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Friday, March 8

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY—You born on the day are intelligently kind-hearted, sympathetic; a go-getter (need proper encouragement and good environment), capable of excellent achievement. You have a tendency to be self-centered and stubborn that should be gently but firmly corrected. Especially harmonious associates Natives of Scorpio, Cancer, Taurus, Leo. Keep your method of procedure always worthy and useful.

LUCKY NUMBER—Today's lucky number is 14.

LUCKY COLOR—Today's lucky color is auburn.

Lost Their 10-Ton Steam Roller

SCRANTON, Pa., March 8 (AP)—Malloy Brothers, Inc., today joined the company of the unhappy, legendary man who lost the base drum. Malloy Brothers, Inc., lost a ten-ton steam roller.

The company, general contractors of Rye, N. Y., told about it in a suit against the L. M. Smith Co., Harrisburg, Pa., charging the latter removed the steam roller from its storage place on Long Island 18 months ago.

Malloy Brothers, Inc., said that after spending considerable time and money looking for the steam roller it was found on a WPA job away up in the Pocono mountains.

Baby in Lap Bars Beano License

Police charges that a woman held a five-year-old child in her lap while playing beano at the Italian-American Improvement Club in Broadway, Chelsea, today prompted Mayor Edward J. Voke to suspend the club's beano license for the remainder of the week.

You Can Be Beautiful

Last Word in Hand Care

By ARLINE GOULD

WE CAN'T help having a little local pride in a new hand lotion that has just appeared in Boston salons, because we found out that it originated in Allston.

Entirely aside from any small-town bragging, however, this pale, soft pink lotion is one of the smoothest and most effective hand-beautifiers we have tried. It has an oil base, yet it is not sticky; it has healing qualities that make it particularly beneficial to hands that have been exposed to the winter elements.

Perhaps it is the common acceptance of brilliant nail polishes that has made women much more conscious of their hands than they ever were before . . . at any rate, suddenly it seems that red and roughened hands are shocking. No matter whether you do all your own housework or not, you simply must have hands that look white and soft . . . as if you did nothing more strenuous than pushing a bell for the servants.

We have on hand literally hundreds of letters bewailing the fact that hands are in the limelight, and that they are more stubborn than faces; so many women report that they try various hand lotions and get little results . . . but we secretly wonder if they use them faithfully.

This one which was produced in an Allston laboratory is the result of much careful study and experiment. We believe it will keep your hands lovely, and restore them to loveliness if you have let them ge into that "dishpan" stage. So far as we know, it is the last word in hand care, and you can get it for only 50 cents in a Boston downtown store.

Call Arline Gould at LIBerty 4000, week days except Saturdays, for information about this new hand lotion, and where it is sold; or write her at the Boston American, enclosing a stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Martin Pattern

To get this pattern send fifteen cents in coins to Boston Evening American, Pattern Department, 232 West 18th street, New York, N. Y. Ten cents additional will bring you our newest Pattern Book.

HONEYED FRUIT PICKLES

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

INGREDIENTS

1 c. cider vinegar
1 c. strained honey
8 whole cloves
2 inches stick cinnamon
1 No. 2½ can sliced pineapple (8 slices)
1 No. 2½ can peach halves (6 to 11 halves)

METHOD OF PREPARATION

Combine vinegar, honey, and spices, and heat to boiling. Drain fruits, saving syrup for other uses. Cut pineapple slices in thirds or quarters, and add with peach halves to hot syrup. Simmer gently 15 min., turning occasionally. Lift out fruits and place in deep bowl or jar. Boil syrup 6 to 7 min., pour over fruits, and let stand in refrigerator at least a day before using. Canned pears or apricots may replace peaches.

SERVE as a garnish around two molds of cranberry jelly as a relish. Serves 8.

Manners

Letter to Servant

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

Will you please tell me, in your column, the correct form of signature for a lady to use in writing to her personal maid or to any other servant in her household? Should it be Mrs. Albert Wald, or Mary-Louise Wald, or simply Mrs Wald? READER.

This kind of letter should be signed:

Very truly yours,
Mary-Louise Wald.
(Mrs. Alfred Wald)

And this is also the form of signature (not, of course, with the "very truly yours") that should be used on a letter of recommendation.

LET THE "I'S" HAVE IT

It's a queer fact that while we use the pronoun "I" over and over again in the beginning of our sentences when we speak, the moment some of us start to write a letter, and particularly a postcard, we drop the "I" from the beginning of practically every sentence we write.

What is the saving of space and ink and time in the letter that awkwardly begin, "Glad to receive your letter, and thought I would write at once to tell you the news." The saving of that "I" in the beginning of your written sentences stamps you and your sentences as slipshod.

French Toast, Muffins Easy

By MARTHA LEE

ANNOUNCE WHEAT CAKES for breakfast and watch the family get to the table in double quick time. Serve English muffins for tea and bow to the compliments of your guests. Be ready with the makings for griddle-toasted sandwiches for Sunday supper and feel comfortable about unexpected guests.

The evenly maintained heat in the surface units of the modern electric range assures that even golden browning which all good things from the griddle must have. It is so easy to know that the heat is right. Just turn the switch to high heat for five minutes, grease the griddle, then turn to low heat and bake.

FRENCH TOAST

Here is a variation for French toast which is delicious. Spread one side of a slice of bread with marmalade, lay a second slice on top. Fasten with toothpicks and dip in a mixture of 1 cup milk, 2 beaten eggs and 1 teaspoon salt. Fry until golden brown. Top each with a teaspoonful of marmalade and serve. Or if you prefer, put thin slices of ham or tongue between the slices of bread instead of marmalade.

ENGLISH MUFFINS

½ cup scalded milk
1 cup water
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. sugar
1 yeast cake, dissolved in a tablespoon warm water
3 tbsp. shortening
4 cups general purpose flour

Heat milk with switch turned to high heat. When lukewarm, add water, salt, sugar, yeast and 2 cups flour. Beat well and let rise at 85 degrees, until double in bulk, about one hour. Add softened shortening and rest of flour. Beat and knead well, let rise double in bulk, about 50 minutes. Roll out ¼ inch thick and cut. Let rise until very light, about one hour. Preheat griddle on large surface unit of the modern electric range for 10 minutes with switch turned to low heat. Cook English muffins 15 to 20 minutes.

JAM-FILLED GRIDDLES

Jam-filled griddle cakes make a delicious and unusual dessert. Make large, thin pancakes, about 6 inches in diameter. Spread with strawberry jam and roll. Sprinkle the cakes with sifted confectioners' sugar, and serve hot.

MELBA TOAST

Melba toast isn't just something that happens in restaurants. Cut white bread into very thin slices, place in a shallow pan and bake in a slow oven until dry and crisp. It can be made to perfection in the oven of the modern electric range, where the low temperature needed can be accurately controlled.

BAKED POTATOES

It is often convenient to bake potatoes for two on the surface unit. You will not need any special device; a covered saucepan will do nicely. Merely place the potatoes in the pan, turn the switch to low and allow one to one and a quarter hours cooking. Turn the potatoes over once during cooking. Electric heat is certain heat and the potatoes will not stick or burn. The potatoes will be as mealy as if baked in the oven, and the cost of cooking them will be slight.

Big Program For Karnawal

Mrs. Daniel Frost Comstock of Lincoln has been organizing groups of socialites in the suburbs to work with the Boston committee for the Polish Karnawal at the Hotel Statler, March 13.

The Karnawal, to aid Polish relief is rapidly assuming aquacade proportions. The fashion contest between debs and professional models will be staged under the supervision of Mrs. Reginald C. Foster and Hasty Pudding and Vincent Club members will contribute to a "Karnawal Kabaret." Pudding boys will stage both a pre-view of this year's show and a review of last year's.

Box parties will be very gay since the boxes in the Statler ballroom are large enough for dinner parties to combine and watch the show which will open with a colorful Polish wedding pageant.

Entertaining at such parties will be Mr. and Mrs. I. Tucker Burr, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Lyman, the Samuel Eliots, Mrs. Robert H. Stevenson, Mrs. Robert W. Lovett, Mrs. Stephen V. R. Crosby, Mrs. John L. Grandin, Mrs. James Lawrance, Weld K. Richardson, John S. Parker, Mrs. Warren Lothrop, Mrs. J. Harleston Parker, Mrs. Pierpont L. Stockpole, Mrs. Lewis I. Prouty, Mrs. Ralph F. Baker, Mrs. Allan Forbes, and many others.

Advises Girls To Be Nurses

There's opportunity for girls in nursing and the demand for more nurses is unlimited, according to James A. Hamilton, director of the New Haven (Ct.) Hospital and professor of hospital administration at Yale University.

Hamilton expressed this view at the eighteenth annual meeting of the New England Hospital Ass'n, which ended today.

He said the modern nurse is a highly specialized worker, doing technical duties which 25 years ago were reserved for doctors and internes only.

After three years' training, a nurse commands a salary of $110 a month, he said. A "special" nurse receives $6 a day.

"More girls should investigate this field, especially in these days when other fields are so crowded," he added.

Thinkya Wise, Eh? Listen, You Cops!

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—There will be no sarcastic cracks (whereya think you're goin'—to a fire?) from New York policemen, if Commr. Lewis J. Valentine has anything to do about it.

"There is no place in the department for the sarcastic and wise-cracking policeman," he told a group of 150 patrolmen. And, he added:

"A kind word of admonition may be many times more effective than a summons."

CORNED BEEF HASH

Use prepared corned beef hash, or mix 2 cups cooked corn beef, 2 cups diced boiled potatoes, ½ cup water, salt, pepper. Brown in 2 tablespoons butter melted with 1 tablespoon prepared mustard.

Why not start today after that $10,000.00 First Prize or any other of the hundred cash awards? The previous puzzles are available without charge for a limited time only and will be sent you on receipt of the coupon in the lower right corner of this page.

Look at Puzzle No. 23 below. Note that it represents a WORD, and it's your job to figure out that word by adding and subtracting, as indicated, the letters given and the letters in the names of the objects pictured. (See explanation on "How to Solve a Rebus Puzzle.")

HOW TO SOLVE A REBUS PUZZLE

Suppose you were asked to solve a puzzle like this: HORSE minus ROSE plus OT equals a 3-letter word. You would cross out the letters R, O, S, E from the word HORSE, leaving you H, to which you would add OT, giving you the word HOT as your solution.

Note the solution diagram after the equal sign in the puzzle contains just as many blank squares as there are letters in the word you're seeking.

Submit Answers in Series of Six

Solutions are to be submitted in series of six—that is the six puzzles appearing from Monday through Saturday of each week. The first three series of solutions (Puzzles 1-6, 7-12 and 13-18) should be sent in as soon as possible in order to bring you up to date. Answers to this week's series (Puzzles 19-24) should be sent in before midnight of Saturday, March 16. Succeeding series, likewise, should be submitted within the week following its publication.

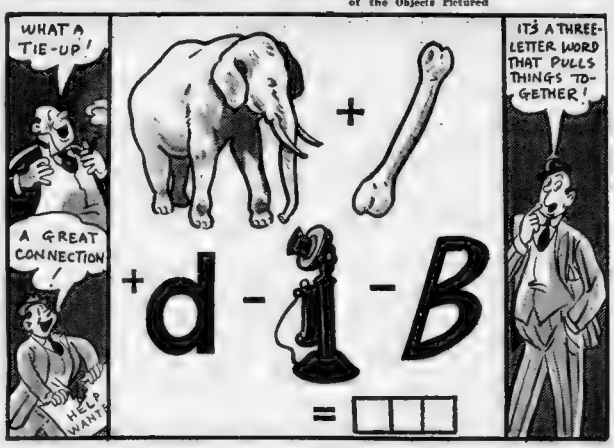
Send a Dime With Each Series

The rules require that you remit 10c in coin with each series of six solutions. This qualifies your entry for a prize and in return for remittances, you will receive at the conclusion of the contest a special set of entertaining Rebus Puzzles.

Neatness doesn't count. There are no letters to write, no essays to compose and you don't have to get any subscriptions!

PUZZLE No. 23

WHAT WORD DOES THIS PUZZLE REPRESENT? Add and Subtract the Letters Given and the Letters in the Names of the Objects Pictured



Fill in your solution above, one letter to each square, in the solution diagram that follows the equal sign.

Your answer to this puzzle, together with your solutions to the three other Rebus Puzzles appearing from Mon., March 4, to Sat., March 9, inclusive, should be brought or mailed to the Rebus Editor, Boston Record-American, P. O. Box 2058, before Midnight, Sat., March 16, together with 10c in coin. In return for remittances, contestants will receive a special set of puzzles at the close of the contest.

THE RULES

1—The Boston Record-American Rebus Game is open to all bona fide residents of the New England States, except employes of the Boston Record, the Boston American and the Sunday Advertiser, members of their families, any person acting as a proxy for another, and any person who has won $500 or more in any newspaper contest.

2—Beginning Monday, February 12th, 1940, a Rebus puzzle will be published each weekday in the Boston Record and the Boston American. Contestants may obtain their puzzles from either publication. The six puzzles published during each week will constitute a series. There will be fifteen weekly series. Answers for each week's series of puzzles should be brought or mailed to the Contest Editor, c/o The Boston Record-American Rebus Game. Answers for each week's series should be submitted within the week after that series appear in the Boston Record and the Boston American.

3—One hundred (100) prizes will be awarded by the Boston Record-American in accordance with the published schedule of prizes, to those 100 contestants who, by their solutions, achieve the 100 highest scores. No contestant may win more than one prize. Neatness does not count. Do not decorate your answers.

4—In case two or more contestants are tied for a certain prize, just what particular prize each contestant may be entitled to will be determined by submitting to each tied contestant a set of tie-breaking puzzles and if necessary a second, third, or fourth set of tie-breaking puzzles. Prizes will be awarded on the basis of the highest scores achieved by contestant in accordance with the instructions and scoring regulations governing the solution of each tie-breaking puzzles. At the discretion of the Boston Record and the Boston American, tied contestants may be required to work the tie-breaking puzzles, without assistance, in the offices of the Boston Record or the Boston American. In case of final ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

5—In order to qualify for a prize, contestants are required to accompany each weekly series of answers with a remittance of 10c in coin. An individual file will be set up for each qualified contestant and each weekly set of answers duly filed therein. After the contest closes, each individual file will be duly judged.

To those contestants who complete the 18 weekly series of puzzles and who in all other ways conform to the rules of the contest, The Boston Record-American will present a special series of fifteen original Rebus puzzles created by Harold Hart, foremost puzzle expert.

6—Any person, by entering this contest, agrees to abide by and accept as final the decision of the Boston Record and the Boston American on all matters affecting this contest, including among others the qualification of contestants, their disqualification at any time for any cause deemed necessary, the application of the rules, the judging of answers, the scoring of solutions, and the interpretation of such instructions (governing individual puzzles) as may be announced by the contest officials. By entering this contest, participants agree that their answers become the property of the Boston Record and the Boston American and will not be returned.

7—Entries that are not signed by name will not be considered eligible for prizes nor will any claims to the ownership of such entries be recognized. Entries which are illegible will not be considered. The Boston Record and the Boston American will not be responsible for entries or communications lost or unduly delayed either from the contestant to the Boston Record-American Contest Editor or from the Boston Record-American Contest Editor to the contestant.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

WITH A PICTURESQUENESS characteristic of all social affairs staged by the Horace Morison family, Babette Morison is having a lovely wedding for her marriage this afternoon to Dr. David Reid Weir of Cleveland . . .

Though strictly a small family affair, no details have been spared to make the wedding a memorable one . . . The ceremony is being performed at 4:30 in the Everett Hale Chapel of the First Church, followed by a reception at the Morison home on Louisburg sq. . . .

Wearing an ivory satin gown of the period of 1900, loaned by her aunt, Mrs. John Cotton, Babette is walking down the aisle on the arm of her father . . . The long puffed sleeves of the gown are encrusted with seed pearl embroidery and her tulle veil which belonged to her maternal great-great-great-grandmother falls from a pearl headdress . . . She is carrying calla lilies . . .

The bride's three sisters, Mary and Elizabeth Morison, and Mrs. William Phelps Allis (Nancy Morison) are in the wedding party together with her brother, Horace, Jr., Mr. Allis, Dr. John Sluder, the bridegroom's brothers, James C. and William C. Weir, and his brother-in-law, Edward Knight . . .

Maid of Honor in Chartreuse Yellow Crepe

MARY MORISON, the maid of honor, is wearing a striking gown of chartreuse yellow crepe with a full skirt and tight basque jacket, and her bonnet is fashioned of chartreuse crepe faced with cardinal red to match her muff of divinity carnations and baby yellow orchids . . . The other sisters are wearing similar gowns and bonnets of cardinal red with muffs of carnations . . .

The bride's mother is receiving in a gown of cyclamen pink crepe with a flowered turban and Mrs. William H. Weir, mother of the bridegroom, is wearing a gray ensemble with wine accessories . . .

Following a honeymoon in Bermuda the couple will live in Cleveland where Dr. Weir is a staff member of the University Hospital . . . He is the second member of the Weir family to choose a Boston bride . . . his brother James having married the former Peggy Leland . . . He is a graduate of Harvard '32, and Harvard Medical School, and his bride, a Vassar graduate, is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club . . . Christened Arria for her mother, she has always been better known as Babette . . .

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Gilbert Fuller and Mrs. William P. Allis were hostesses at luncheons for the wedding party and out-of-town guests . . . Members of the bridegroom's family here for the wedding include his parents, Dr. and Mrs. William H. Weir, his sister, Marian, who was married last month to Edward W. Knight, and, of course, his brothers . . . They were all entertained at dinner by the bride's parents last evening . . .

INVITATIONS are being received today for the gala concert at Symphony Hall March 25, sponsored by many representative Bostonians to benefit Boston's four French War Works . . . Invitations are issued by the executive committee in charge of entertainment, which includes Mrs. Charles Codman, chairman; Mrs. F. Wadsworth Bush, Allan Forbes, Henry B. Cabot, former Lieutenant-Governor Gaspar G. Bacon and Wallace Goodrich . . . The affair will feature a program by Lily Pons, George Copeland, Dr. Serge Koussevitzky and Boston Symphony artists. An added feature will be the first American public showing of the French film, "La Revue du Quatorze Juillet."

ARRIA (BABETTE) MORISON who becomes the bride of Dr. David Reid Weir of Cleveland in a picturesque ceremony this afternoon. She is the daughter of the Horace Morisons of Louisburg square.

Socialites at Ice Carnival

To an ordinary everyday skater who works diligently to master the figure eight, the difficult and graceful routines performed by stars in the Boston Skating Club's ice carnival seem like magic.

Members of the audience who clapped and cheered for encores included Mrs. Lawrence Lowell Reeve, Mrs. J. Harleston Parker in a family party with her daughter Mrs. Richard R. Stebbins and her son and daughter-in-law, the Timmy Parkers; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pope, Priscilla Phelan, Anne Sidney with Martha Pervere, and hundreds of others.

There's no end to the variety of stunts and the show seems better than ever this year . . . The three-day attraction opened last evening at the club's new indoor rink on Soldier's Field road and was attended by a large and enthusiastic audience.

Joan Tozzer, women's national champion, went through her graceful routines to a medley of Hawaiian music, and she has already learned to do a Hula Hula on skates, in honor of the tropical island which is to be her future home. Winsome Polly Blodget performed a novel dance to swing music and for an encore acted out the lyrics of the popular song "Stop, It's Wonderful."

Art Exhibit In Brookline

A varied assortment of handiwork of gifted socialites is on display at the Brookline Public Library's ambitious Arts and Crafts exhibit which opened this week with a tea given by Mrs. Theodore G. Bremer.

Mrs. Daniel D. Addison is exhibiting some of her exquisite needlework in a canticale of St. Francis and a three-leaved screen painted in rare colorings. Mrs. Gerome Brush, artist, has entered a small bust of Anna May Wong and two lifelike crayon portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Gorham Brooks.

Mrs. Arthur Williams shows a natural wood fan with fine pen sketches from "Alice in Wonderland," while her daughter, Mrs. Samuel Mixter, displays a bag designed in England and worked in needlepoint. Mrs. Theodore G. Bremer's long wall hanging of dull sand color fabric worked in a delicate pattern of crewel work, has attracted the admiration of many spectators.

The exhibit which will be open through March 17 is sponsored by Miss Laura Hooper, librarian, and is attracting many visitors. Over 100 talented Brookline residents are exhibiting.

Girl Singers in Harvard Show

Leading ladies from Wellesley and Radcliffe will join members of Lowell House Musical Society in the production of "Acis and Galatea" at Lowell House, Harvard, March 12 and 13.

Adding a feminine touch to the cast will be Eleanor Baker, member of Radcliffe's Choral Society, and soloist of last year's opera. Marry Bennett, graduate student in music at Radcliffe, will sing the role of Damon, a shepherd. Male leads will be sung by Harrison M. Rainie, Harvard senior, and Frederick C. Wing, a law student.

This is the third all-University-Radcliffe opera presented by Lowell House and the first to include a dance group from Wellesley.

LOEW'S NEW HIT---'HIS GIRL FRIDAY'---FAST AND FUNNY

Film Boasts Sterling Cast

By PEGGY DOYLE

They've prettied up Hildy Johnson, star reporter of the Hecht-MacArthur stage and screen smash-hit, "The Front Page," for Columbia's excellent remake, "His Girl Friday."

But wait—even plus s. a. and Rosalind Russell's handsome self, Hildy (this time short for Hildegarde) is as go-getting and wise-cracking as ever and the new edition of this fabulous newspaper saga, as vastly amusing as when it sprang full-born from the forehead of journalism's peck's-bad-boys.

Loew's State and Orpheum audiences are finding it so fast and funny they'll have to catch it a second time to get the gags their laughter drowned out at the original viewing. Never doubt it, "His Girl Friday" is crackling good comedy. It may not have the bite of the harder-hitting "Front Page" but, except in one or two sequences, its machine-gun bark is as impudent and rib-rocking as ever.

Hildy's change in sex has not found Scripter-writer Charles Lederer wanting in chivalry. For the current edition he has invented a gaspar mixed toast fiance, Ralph Bellamy, to bear the brunt of Managing Editor Cary Grant's fiendish scheming. And Hildy, in this roaring '40 version, not only is not long-suffering—she also has the last word. She marries the guy. And is she a match for him! And does he deserve his fate!!!

Columbia has assembled a first-rate cast for its fast newspaper classic, which is a sort of double indemnity since the latter has a ready-made audience.

Miss Russell, as we have indicated, covers herself with glory in the role Lee Tracy created for the stage in 1928 and Pat O'Brien, for the screen three years later. The gal is a grand comedienne, as she so brilliantly demonstrated in "The Women," to mention only one instance.

Grant's Walter Burns, who'll risk anything for an eye-smiting eight-column line, is a swell job of work. Those who remember this Grade-A star from his stock company days here will be amused to hear him make a reference to "Archie Leach" in the film's unreeling, the A. L. being Cary Grant's own name.

Ralph Bellamy also gets called his right name when Hildy's ex-husband and present m. c., describing her meek bridegroom-to-be, says "Oh, he looks like that movie guy, Ralph Bellamy."

Others rating honorable mention are Gene Lockhart, for his fat-head sheriff; Roscoe Karns, for his Criminal Courts building man, McCue; Edwin Maxwell, as the professional witness-psychoanalyst; Billy Gilbert, as the messenger who came too late with the pardon and others in a well-chosen cast.

Howard Hawks is to be congratulated for a top notch production for which Columbia should be richly rewarded at the box-office.

"Convicted Woman," featuring Rochelle Hudson and Frieda Inescourt, is the second feature.

BOSTON playgoers, laggard at the engagement's opening, are redeeming as well as rewarding themselves by flocking to Lillian Hellman's great drama, "The Little Foxes," at the Colonial. Tallulah Bankhead is giving a brilliant performance as the beautiful, soulless Regina Giddens. Frank Conroy, as her ailing, disillusioned husband, is a standout. The play is remaining through next week.

The Movie Clock Appears on Page 41.

Boston's Vaudeville Scores

Proving again that it's not what you do but how you do it, George Beatty, starring in the RKO Boston's stage show, is doing his well-known pantomime of an intoxicated night-clubber trying to roll his own and making it seem as fresh as the newest headline.

The versatile Beatty, who writes his own material, can also sing. He did at yesterday's opening show and found the audience as warmly enthusiastic as when he was dispensing his original and engaging brand of comedy.

There's canine comedy galore in the opening act, Woolford's Pets. These are a fistful of chihauhua and 10 dachshunds, all highly educated but frolicsome.

Second only to the starring Beatty are two resourceful musicians, Charles Gregory and Jules Raymon, who can make likable melody with the most unorthodox articles. Did you ever get music out of an inner tube, the wrist-hugging area of a rubber glove, a vacuum cleaner? Well, they can.

Radio tenor Lester Cole surrounds himself with a half-dozen beauties, billed as the Singing Debutantes, and when they all open their mouths in unison it is most pleasing to the ear.

The dancing Chester Fredericks and Gloria Lane round out the stage program.

...ughter of the Wilson Chain Store Millions dines at the Cafe Splendide with Philip Baldwin," read the caption.

No matter what your taste in girls happened to be—you had to admit that Betty was lovely—even with her eyes full of tears, that were a mixture of anger and self-pity.

Jane's parents and Betty's parents had grown up together in Greenville. Jane's father, gaunt and grim, had turned the general store belonging to Jane's grandfather, into the Wilson Cash and Carry Shops.

Betty's dad, on the other hand, had managed to lose everything there was in the way of family inheritance. But Betty had to smile when she thought of him. He was so dear! There was no denying it though, it had been tough for Betty to bring up the twins since her mother's death, on what he earned as night clerk at the Greenville Arms.

'It just doesn't seem fair," Betty said to herself.

Jane had gone to the best private schools, she'd traveled all over the world, she'd had a formal debut. The Wilson owned great big houses in New York, Maine and Newport. Why, they even still retained the family mansion in Greenville without ever opening it up, while Betty didn't have a room to herself, since Edith had grown too big to sleep with Tad, in their small flat. As for traveling, Jane had never been out of the state.

The two girls had seen practically nothing of each other since kindergarten age. At that time the Wilson millions had been merely thousands and they had been content to live in their native habitat from time to time.

All she and Jane seemed to have in common now was Philip Baldwin. He was a product of Greenville, too, and he'd lived there until he went to work for a firm of lawyers in New York. Betty had never tried to kid herself, she'd been in love with Philip since she was knee high to a grasshopper.

Thinks, however, have a strange way of happening. At the very moment Betty was saying: "It just isn't fair that Jane should have everything," which meant "including Philip Baldwin"—her favorite Aunt Cissie was in the act of writing her a letter. It was to the effect that Aunt Cissie considered it a shame that Betty, at her age, should be shouldering the responsibility of a family.

Aunt Cissie went on to state that she'd be glad to come to Greenville for a year and take over the household—if Betty felt like trying to find a job in New York. It appeared a bonus was due on Aunt Cissie's life insurance amounting to around a hundred dollars. This she'd place at her niece's disposal

They all agreed Betty should stay at a certain girls' club. This had several advantages. It was inexpensive—she'd be chaperoned and last but no least the club was managed by a woman experienced in advising newcomers how to earn a living in New York.

Considering the highly competitive nature of the employment field there and the fact that Betty's biggest asset was her beauty, it was decided she should apply at the Wheeler agency to see what Mr. Wheeler thought of her chances as a model.

Luck was with her. As she sat waiting, a man entered the reception room. Because she felt him staring at her so hard, Betty was finally forced to look at him.

"Do you mind standing up?" he courteously asked.

Betty wondered whether she'd been sitting on something he'd left on her chair.

"Perfect," the man murmured to himself. "I hope you don't mind my asking—are you looking for work?" he said eagerly.

Before she had a chance to answer he continued: "My name is John Finlay. You're exactly the type I need for a serial I have to do for "The Lady." If you'd pose for me I'd be glad to pay you well."

They'd gone in to see Mr. Wheeler, who'd be content to have her work with John Finlay. It turned out he was quite the most famous of the illustrators—Betty didn't dare admit she'd never heard of him.

She was also placed on the Wheeler Agency list and soon she was offered more work than she could take. On the blackboard with its small charts, divided into 15-minute intervals, for each model's time, her day was always filled.

It was at a fashion show, combined with the dansant, in aid of charity, under the direction of John Finlay that she'd seen Philip and Jane sitting at a table together. There was a dark young man with them, who turned out to be Barry Clinton.

Philip was delighted to see her. "Gee, Beautiful," he murmured with his red head bending over her, while he held her tighter than was necessary, "why didn't you tell me you were in town?"

She never said she thought from the picture in the paper, that he wasn't interested in anybody but Jane. She just smiled and said nothing at all. Both men asked for her telephone—so did Jane.

All Betty and Jane seemed to have in common now was Philip Baldwin.

They all promised to get in touch with her.

It wasn't so very long after Betty arrived in New York that Jane Wilson set up in bed contemplating the breakfast tray her maid had brought in to her, along with the morning papers. Suddenly she let go of the page she'd been reading, which dropped so that the picture of Betty and Barry Clinton, smiling at each other, still gazed up at her. "The lovely Betty Brinsley, dining with Barry Clinton at the Cafe Splendide," the caption explained.

A few tears trickled down her cheeks. Jane had no illusions about herself. She knew that even the clothes designed for her by Ingrim couldn't make her over into anything but a girl nature had ordained should wear a severe sport hat.

"Betty has everything," Jane sighed. She'd look well in a potato sack—she had a family that adored her and freedom to do as she pleased. On the other hand she, Jane, was an only child with a father who'd never spoken an affectionate word to her and a mother who thought of nothing but Society—with a capital "S".

Jane realized she'd be content to live in a one room and kitchenette apartment with Barry, supposing her mother disowned her and her father disinherited her. But then—

As we've said before, Fate does such unexpected things. At the precise moment when Jane was saying out loud, "It just doesn't seem fair that Betty should have everything," which meant including Barry—Betty had an early luncheon date with Philip Baldwin. He'd just asked her a question, namely: "Could a young woman with the

BETTY, who figures she has nothing, while her old friend,

JANE, has the world at her feet.

PHILIP, a young lawyer.

BARRY, a successful artist who seems to like both Betty and Jane.

...g a sen-...g—" when ... up to their ...ly look happy, the two ...ne said grumly.

"I think we've just, at this moment, became engaged, don't you, Betty?" Philip said, holding Betty's hand. She gaily nodded her head

Said Barry in that solemn manner of his, "I wish I were—if it weren't for all that beastly money of Jane's—" he drew up a chair preparing to sit down with them.

"Oh, no you don't," Philip said firmly. "We wish to be alone. But now that you've seen how simple it is, suppose, like a good fellow, you go over to Jane's house and ask her to marry you."

"That would be only fair," said Betty, giving him a slight push toward the door.

THE END.

Don't miss tomorrow's thrilling story. It's called "The Knife Thrower."

Shoe Industry News Is 'Tops'

The shoe industry provides the top trade news for the New England sector this week . . . By virtue of the pressure buyers are exerting on manufacturers for lower prices . . . Other key industry reports are tinged with cheer without being openly optimistic . . .

LEATHER PRICES HOLD

MANUFACTURERS . . . Despite the pressure of large buyers, are refusing shoe price cuts because of the situation in leather . . . They say the call for lowered prices is impossible simply because leather prices are holding at high levels . . . And have every prospect of going higher . . . Obviously they would be swapping volume operations for a profitless era under such conditions . . .

TEXTILES . . . After making a promising start on the week cotton goods trading flattened out . . . Buyers started making low bids in an effort to force sellers to trim prices . . . And they were at least partially successful . . . Wool prices, which have spent a number of weeks slipping to lower activity levels, finally levelled off . . . And observers generally agree it looks as though they could stabilize in here . . . Woolen textile piece goods are in good demand and the outlook for fall fabric demand is good . . .

• • •

ENCOUGAGEMENT . . . Was supplied by retail surveys, according to Dunn & Bradstreet . . . Whose weekly review speaks of some pickup in the past week . . . It is also interesting to note the trade reporting service finds collections in retail lines have been somewhat better lately . . . An indication at least, consumers are in a position to absorb more goods . . . Another good item is increased Port of Boston activity . . .

SPEAKING ABOUT TAXES

SOAKING CITIZENS . . . Is not a purely domestic practice . . . In fact intolerable though the burden may seem around March 15 it is really nothing compared with what happens in other countries . . . One look at the pictograph will convince readers . . . But it should be remembered only one specific class is covered, i. e., income earners of $3000 a year . . . And only the U. S. tax is taken into consideration . . .

LITTLE FELLOWS . . . In this country get off with a tax of only $8 . . . And their position has been zealously guarded . . . But with upper bracket earners' tax paying abilities being exhausted it is a question of how long their impost will be held down . . . Now that the national debt limit is about reached, either new taxes or an increase in the limit is indicated . . . Provided, of course, spenders are not curbed . . .

• • •

SCANT SOLACE . . . Derives to little fellows studying comparable taxes under such conditions . . . For he knows he is the next target . . . And he knows too that the situation in England and Germany today derives from an earlier imposition of income taxes on little fellows . . . And that progression, no matter how distant similar tax heights may be, is the inexorable force, foreign experience shows, with which to reckon . . .

STATE STREET TALES

STOCK PRICES . . . Are making a brave try for higher levels . . . And so far none can definitely say they are going to be denied . . . Our personal idea is they will attain their goal . . . There is plenty of bearishness around . . . Traders are quick to cash profits . . . And a better grade of news is getting little notice . . . All are corollaries of the early stage of a rising market . . . And the expact opposite of conditions surrounding important tops . . .

• • •

BOARDROOMS . . . Took keen note of George Rothwell Brown's Washington dispatch carried in this page Thursday . . . In which he said thoughtful observers were paying considerable attention to England's war on the economic front . . . Which found the U. S. once more the goat . . . Because of her slicing of American purchases . . . And her trade and money gains through astute handling of the pound and gold policies . . .

ULCER SUFFERERS

Aid Temporary Relief of

STOMACH PAINS

WITHOUT BICARBONATE OF SODA OR DRUGS . . .

If you are forever tortured by the gnawing pain of a stomach ulcer, try PEROKA TABLETS as an aid for the temporary relief of your pain. PEROKA TABLETS are drugless, easy-to-take tablets made with soothing vegetable ingredients. They consist of a rare blend of sea vegetables very rich in health-giving food minerals. These wonderful tablets also contain Okra, which supplies vegetable mucin, a substance used in many hospitals for treating ulcers.

Most important of all, PEROKA TABLETS do not contain cathartics or laxatives, no salts, no cascara, no bicarbonate of soda or other chemicals found in many so-called "stomach tablets". These scientifically made tablets do not contain opiates or other habit-forming drugs. PEROKA TABLETS are unconditionally guaranteed to be free of all dangerous drugs of any kind.

If PEROKA TABLETS can bring you the relief from pain you seek, then you are now suffering from unnecessary pain. You may never know how PEROKA TABLETS can help you, until you have tried them. CUT OUT THIS ADVERTISEMENT—present it with only $1.25 for a large bottle of PEROKA TABLETS at your nearest Nature Food Centres store today. They are enthusiastically recommended by America's largest chain of health food stores. Mail orders sent postpaid.

Aircrafts Up In Lively Stock Market

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—Buying in aircrafts provided the principle activity in today's stock market.

While steels were unable to move out of a narrow orbit, elsewhere selective advances of fractions to around a point predominated.

Dealings were somewhat livelier than in yesterday's proceedings.

Among better acting issues were Chrysler, General Motors, Sears Roebuck, N. Y. Central, American Smelting, Lockheed, Glenn Martin, United Aircraft and Celanese.

Bonds inclined to emulate stocks. Commodities and foreign securities markets were a trifle mixed.

Wall Street sentiment appeared much brighter than in recent weeks. Earnings statements for 1939 continued to bring support for individual shares. In addition, some analysts saw bullish omens on the recently cloudy economic horizon. There also were forecasts of expanded European war purchases, especially of warplanes.

Holders of merchandising shares were unconcerned by the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing this weeks' retail spending throughout the country topped the same period last year by less than had been expected. While the increase over the 1939 week ranged from 4 to 8 per cent, the Review said stormy weather in many parts of the United States served as a substantial damper of sales.

Studied was the report of the Commerce Department indicating that, although February showed no signs of a reversal in the business downtrend, data for the last two weks of the month revived hopes the decline was leveling off. Volume of new orders, the report added, is still generally below production and backlogs of unfilled orders have been reduced despite a sharp fall in industrial output in the past two months.

CONSOLIDATED FILM NET $1.57

Consolidated Film Industries, Inc. reports net consolidated income for 1939 of $628,297, after all charges, including depreciation and federal taxes, equal to $1.57 a share on the 400,000 shares of preferred stock outstanding, compared with net earnings of $616,697, or $1.54 a share on the same number of preferred shares outstanding for 1938. Net sales of the company for the year 1939 totaled $7,409,452, compared with $8,798,875 for 1938.

FIRST NATIONAL STORES NET 81 CTS.

Report of First National Stores, Inc., for the first quarter ended December 30, 1939, shows net profit of $663,624 after depreciation and taxes, equal to 81 cents a share on 818,068 shares of common. Net in 1938 quarter was $721,157, or 88 cents a share on 817,568 shares.

AUSTEN LAKE

Randoms From Sox Scrap Paper Album

SARASOTA, Fla., March 8—Blisters, the little, fleshy, water-filled bubbles which grow on the hands and heels, are a horror to conditioning Red Sox. So Ted Williams anoints his palms with benzoin, a skin-hardening solution and wears a fingerless kid glove on his right, or "power" hand. Little strips of adhesive tape across the Os Calcis, or heel bone, are an antidote to scuffs . . . Moe Berg, cultured catcher-coach, has lasted in the major league longer with less than almost any other athlete, but his value to the club is as a catalyst, a chemical term for a substance that has no greater use than a "good mixer" among antagonistic substances. Berg has an intimate, paternal way with kid players. Usually he elects to sit down with a novice at dinner. "Keep that meat hand in your hip pocket during batting practice," he told George Lacy, the hulking and slightly apathetic catcher from Minneapolis, "Catch only with your mitt, and save yourself some busted fingers."

AUSTEN LAKE

Most useful ball in Lefty Grove's pitching kit is his fork ball, one that he nips between spread index and middle fingers—a medium speed heave that wavers like a knuckle ball and then ducks downward like the chin of a shy child. Lefty calls it his "two 'n' nuthin' " ball, meaning a strikeout pitch . . . Best "knuckler" in camp belongs to Jim Bagby, a pitch that is released without any spin and which wobbles like a drunken thing as it catches alternate air currents on its way to the plate. It's almost unhittable and uncatchable. I've seen Johnny Peacock reach for one shoulder high only to have it swoop suddenly and hit him on the knee cap. Incurable fault of the knuckler is that it cannot be controlled, due to its dependence on wind eddies. You can't tell when some vagrant gust or puff will blow it off center.

Fake Baseballs for Autograph Pack

THE RED SOX BROUGHT 75 DOZEN OFFICIAL baseballs to camp—$1500 worth at $16.20 a dozen. Indeed the club's annual ball bill runs around $10,000. They also have ten dozen "autograph balls," plain-covered pellets outwardly perfect but stuffed with wool scraps. (Price $4.00 a doz.). Signature fiends get the phonies.

Sox batsmen are bleating about the way pitched balls "sail" in batting practice, a tendency to swoop unexpectedly and endanger skulls and bones. Reason is the glistening, slick new covers. The boys were growing bat shy until Cronin ordered the clubhouse boy to rub the balls in clay mixed with pumice to roughen the surface uniformly . . . The cry goes up, "Fore," "Yoicks," "Tallyho" or "Heads" when owlish Dom DiMaggio comes to bat, due to Dom's habit of letting his bat slip at the end of his swing. He cut the legs from under a visiting photographer yesterday. The camera man got up, not so much concerned with an injured knee as his shattered lens. "I come a hundred miles, don't get a picture, and it's cost me a hundred dollars," he moaned . . . Cronin makes a habit of hitting lazily to right field, his springtime system of avoiding a "lunge" at the ball and seeing more of its approach . . . "Timing" is paramount in hitting. Ted Williams is an example—he takes some savage cuts at the ball and often pops or dribbles to the infield. Somewhere in a swing is the "peak of power," a split-second space which players call "the sweet spot." A shade too soon or too late and the ball doesn't ride.

Cronin handles the club's heaviest bat, a 40-ounce persimmon-wood mace. By the time the season starts he will be using a 36-ounce stick and by July 1 one of 34 ounces. The extra weight, he thinks, develops his wrist muscles in training . . . Fritz Ostermueller is a dejected object these days. Suffering from acute sinus trouble, brought on from being struck full on the face by a ball off Hank Greenberg's bat two years ago, he suffers giant headaches and spends his mornings sitting before an electric heater, sniffing up medicated vapors and bemoaning the discouraging outlook.

Frank Shellenbach spends part of each p. m. correcting Herb Hash's habit of fingering his pitches as he prepares to throw. He wants Herb to hide the ball in his glove at the last instant before delivery, lest opposing hitters detect his curve and his fast ball. Frank has the big, full bodied youth, (he's the No. 1 young prospect in camp), correcting this fault before his mirror in his hotel room at night . . . Lacy is the only catcher in camp who conforms to the standard, thick-set build traditional among backstops. Peacock is slender (153 pounds), almost spindly without a pick on his bones. Desautels is short, blockier and juvenile, yet the best mechanic of the three at his position.

Mickey Harris, sandy-haired, hollow-cheeked, squint-eyed, left-handed pitcher, has leanings toward oddity. Not the least abashed by such illustrious company as Grove, Foxx and Cronin, he lifts his voice in camp meeting, hee-yah-yahs in the dining hall and regards himself as equal with one and all. Immediately the press critics diagnosed him as a "typical left hander." Herb Pennock, also a left hander and, by no flight of fancy, eccentric, scoffs at this "portside screwball" theory, saying the percentage of pitching crackpots among right handers is higher but less noticeable because of their greater number . . . Nothing is more dismal than Florida when it rains, the drooping palm fronds, undrained puddles in the streets, the flat, melancholy land. And when it rains here it doesn't just pelt dimes and nickels. It rains quarters and silver half dollars.

BRUINS TOPPLE AMERKS TO REGAIN N.H.L. PEAK

NEW YORK, March 8—Art Ross's Bruins are back on top of the National Hockey League today and seem destined to retain the Prince of Wales trophy for the second straight year after having nipped the Americans, 2 to 1, in Madison Square Garden in a game that was featured only by the presence of Mr. Hockey, Eddie Shore.

It was the first time in the long brilliant career of the former Bruin that he has ever opposed the Boston sextet. Shore also brought with him to the Americans Frankie Breisler, his playing partner from his own Springfield team.

The Bruins and Americans will play the only Saturday night game of the Boston season tomorrow night, after which the Bruins take on the Rangers.

It was the seventh win for the Bruins over the Americans in as many games and the victory enabled the Bostonians to grab the league lead from the Rangers, who were idle.

The game itself was a tame affair that saw only one penalty handed out and that to a Bruin for holding. Beisler, a hefty six-footer, was the only one handing out tough body checks, and even he desisted from it after the first period.

Milt Schmidt, the league's leading scorer, put the Bruins out in front at 12:02 of the opening period. Wilfie Field was at fault on the score. He allowed Bobby Bauer to take the rubber away from him near the Amerk blue line. Little Bobby circled him and was batting the defense man for the rubber 30 feet from the cage when Schmidt dashed in from nowhere to whack it into the net.

There wasn't much to the second period although the A's missed a grand opportunity to tie things up early in the session. Crawford was holding Armstrong 15 feet from the Bruin goal and Boll tore in to whack the puck toward the cage. His shot wasn't even on the net which was lucky for Brimsek, who was out of position.

Dumart made it 2 to 0 at 11:30 of the final session, getting a pass from Schmidt just over the blue line and continuing down the left a'ley to find the far corner of the net with Hooley Smith hanging on to his neck.

Bauer also got an assist on the play, making it quite a night for the old Kraut line from Kitchener.

With less than four minutes to go, Smith spoiled Brimsek's shut out chances, when he scored from close in on passes from Anderson and Armstrong on a shot on which the Bruin goalie was partially screened.

FLYING FINNS — Taisto Maki flies away from the field in three-mile race at San Francisco. He's being coached by Paavo Nurmi, in gray sweat suit, as he shows coast distancers how to run.

Stork Near; No Wonder Ducky Wants More Pay

NEW YORK, March 8 (AP)—The baseball holdout situation today still had as its No. 1 dissenter Outfielder Joe Medwick of the Cardinals. Ducky Wucky used to make $18,000 back in 1938, but took a $2000 cut last season. Now he wants it back.

Ducky stayed around St. Petersburg waiting for Owner Sam Breadon or General Manager Branch Rickey. When neither showed up, Medwick flew back to his St. Louis home to await (1) the birth of a second baby to his wife; (2) some signs of interest on the part of the management.

The Cardinals also have to cope with a holdout by Catcher Don Padgett, the fabulous hitter whom they expect to drum-major the parade to the pennant.

U. S. Hockey Finals Start

Eight fighting amateur hockey teams whirl into action today at the Arena, with the opening of the first annual Senior B National championship of the United States Amateur Hockey Ass'n.

With two games this afternoon starting at 5 o'clock, and two more games starting at 9, action will be brisk. The strong Notre Dame hockey club of Waterville, Me., tackles the Junior Olympics in the opener, with the 97 Club meeting the Rhode Island Scarlets in the second contest.

Evening games send the Lewiston St. Doms against the Exchange Brokers of New York in the opener and the Atlantic City Sea Hawks against the Springfield Braves

Scarsella Winning First Base Berth From Bud Hassett

By BILL GRIMES

BRANDENTON, Fla., March 8—At present, Les Scarsella, Sibby Sisti, Billy Wietelmann and Tony Cuccinello comprise the varsity infield . . . With veterans on the lines and a pair of speedy youngsters in the centre it is an ideal combination . . . Scarsella, who is five months younger than Frank McCormick, who received the nod over him last year from Bill McKechnie, is not only great defensively but packs plenty of power with the willow . . . Cuccinello acts like he'd been playing third for years . . . He has a remarkable pair of hands, and not having as much ground to cover looks faster . . . Tony uses his famous side arm throw on plays "around the horn," but when he "goes" to first, throws overhand . . . Wietelmann and Sisti are lightning fast and will protect the lanes between them.

Cuccinello

Slapsie Maxie West is getting his batting eye . . . The 9th St. Ground, where the Bees train, is very spacious and usually the wind is "against" . . . Yet, Maxie has managed to poll a few balls over the barrier . . . Al Manno, the chunky little catcher, who reported this week, hails from Shelby, Ind. He played for Paramount Studios on the Coast for two years, and last season was in semi-pro ball in Indiana . . . Bill Posedel must have been working out for weeks before he reported here . . . He pitched batting practice the third day in camp and at times he was really bearing down.

Casey Stengel is very much impressed with the actions of George Metkovich, the 18 year old first baseman from the Coast . . . Although he has played only one season, Meticovich handles himself like a veteran and has a good stance and a fine swing at the bat . . . And, equally as important he remembers what he's told . . . Dick Coffman, who was picked up as a free agent after he had been turned loose by Bill Terry, had all of his teeth extracted during the off season . . . He says that he hasn't felt as well in years . . . And, there isn't a player in camp working harder to make the grade than Coffman . . .

Right now, Mike Sandlock is the best fisherman in camp . . . Billy Weir went for 10 dollars worth of equipment and hasn't come up with a nibble as yet . . . Has Buddy Hassett conceded the first base berth to Les Scarsella? . . . He hasn't been spending much time around the initial sack and wears a finger glove more than he does a first sacker's mitt . . . Jack Onslow has taken off so much weight that there's enough slack in his civie trousers to make a suit of clothes, with an extra pair of pants for Blaze Romeo.

Jim Tobin, the ex-Pirate row hurling for Casey Stengel, has played every position since he has been playing professional baseball . . . He started as a shortstop, moved over to first base and then took up catching . . . Finally he became a pitcher . . . While he was catching, if a pitcher was getting his ears pinned back and the manager didn't have a relief hurler warmed up, Jim would go out on the mound and pitch . . . Then, he would put his shin guards, chest protector and mask back on and catch again.

Joe Gulledge, former University of Oklahoma infielder, who is one of the finest prospects any major league club ever signed, worked as a janitor in a Tulsa movie theater for three years . . . The Yankees, Red Sox and Giants were hot on Gulledge's trail when he was signed by Bob Quinn . . . Joe will probably go out for a year but when he comes back Boston fans will see a real ball player . . . Al Piechota has been knocking around for about six seasons . . . Three years ago, he won eight straight for Oakland of the Pacific Coast League . . . If he doesn't make the grade, Paul Bowser should grab Piechota . . . He's plenty husky and should be able to toss the Angel from the Arena into Charlie McCarthy's lap over in the box office of Symphony Hall.

Casey Stengel was elated over John Quinn's decision to send Al Roberge, the Lowell Boy, who lost his mother recently, back to camp . . . Casey is very strong for Al . . . And, so are are all the other coaches . . . All that Rabbit Warstler needs is a couple of shakes to get into condition, so it will not handicap him to report a few days late . . . Bill Doak, Jr., son of the former St. Louis pitcher, is the outstanding junior golfer of the Sunshine State . . . While he was a member of the Ohio state police department, Eddie Onslow, who will manage the Bradford club of the Pony League this season, was assigned to bring in Baby Face Floyd, the notorious bank robber . . .

When he read in the papers about the blizzard that hit Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York, Bob Quinn refused to allow his daughters, Margaret and Mary to drive home, until he was assured that the roads were safe . . . Neither of the girls broke down when they were ordered to stay here . . . Wilbur McElroy, one of the youngsters that Casey Stengel sent on from the Coast, is developing into a real pitching prospect . . .

WILLIAMS CRONIN DI MAGGIO FOXX

'Pics Can Finish First Playoff Here Tonight

Boston's Olympics, braced by the return of Defenseman Ag Smith, collide with the Verdun Bulldogs tonight at the Garden in the Provincial League contest.

Victory tonight would wind up the first playoff series and send the Pic against the winner of the Lachine-St. Hyacinthe series.

Coach Hago Harrington will welcome the return of Smith at the blue line, where his team is far from its best. Junie Stubbs came through the first Verdun game in fine style, but the big Melrose resident is still not at peak condition.

Smith is nursing a bruised hand acquired mid-way through last Sunday's Verdun game, but Trainer Bill Linskey reports Art will be ready for tonight's battle.

Boston will present the same array that downed the Bulldogs, 5-3, on Wednesday night, with the exception of either Junior Ernie Garron or Al Carvelli. One of these youngsters will have to remain out of uniform when Smith dresses.

Ted Frazier will remain in the Olympic cage again tonight.

Gehringer O. K., Back Injury Only Lumbago

LAKELAND, Fla., March 8 (INS)—A sigh of relief was heaved by the Tigers today when club trainer, Denny Carroll, reported Second Baseman Charley Gehringer was suffering from only an attack of lumbago and had not, as was first believed, seriously injured his back while working out.

"I will have him in good shape in ten days or so," Carroll said. "It is a deep-seated case that will take time."

Willetts Back For Yale Game

A weak Crimson six will face Yale tomorrow at New Haven in the second game of their annual series. Yale won the first game by the score of 4-2 and is heavily favored to annex the game tomorrow and win the Quad league.

Prennie Willetts of Harvard has entirely recovered from a body injury and will play with Dave Eaton and Stacy Hulse on the second line. There are no other changes in the Harvard lineup.

Coach Murray Murdock of Yale announced that he will not make any changes in his team which outplayed the Cantabs a week ago.

SKIERS ARE NOW ON FRIENDLY TERMS WITH THE WEATHER MAN! Good skiing has featured the past few weeks—at last, and the rain that fell locally this week was snow all over Northern New England . . .

Every schuss center now has plenty of cover, and although the snow is wet and heavy at places, falling temperatures and a new light fall of powder will make favorable conditions . . . Enjoyable spring skiing is virtually assured to be certain late in the season on Cannon Mountain in Franconia Notch, N. H., and in Tuckerman's Ravine, Pinkham Notch; as well as at Pico Peak, Woodstock and Mt. Mansfield in Vermont . .

DOWNHILL DOINGS: Racers will plunge down the narrow and precipitous Wildcat Trail in Pinkham Notch, N. H., Sunday, in the sixth annual Appalachian Mountain Club's downhill race . . . A brilliant field of runners is expected to await the drop of the flag in this thrilling contest, each man required to give his utmost of skill and speed as he traverses this testing trail, hoping to take top honors in this major event . . .

The Fair Sex will also take to skis on Sunday in the Vermont Women's Downhill Championship on the Sunset Schuss Trail at Pico Peak, Vermont . . . F. I. S and Olympic stars are entered in this classic . . . Our choice to win the race is 15-year-old Marilyn Shaw of Stowe . . .

The first annual USEASA Junior Field Day is all set for the 16th and 17th of this month at North Conway, N. H., Chet Emerson, chairman of the Eastern's junior committee announced today. The Eastern Slope Ski Club will play host this year . . . Teams are expected from Hanover, Lebanon, Woodstock, Eastern Slope, Franconia, Littleton and Manchester . . . There will be proficiency tests, a slalom, and exhibition jumping . . . A trophy donated by Harvey Gibson will be awarded the wining group . . . Such a meet, in our opinion, is great for the Youth of America. It should help to develop young skiers, and give them a competitive spirit and true sense of fair play. From such will spring our Olympic stars of the future . . . More power to them! . . .

SKI CLUB CHATTER: Last Sunday, the Innitou Ski Runners sponsored an informal meet on their own development at Horn Pond Mountain in Woburn, competing against the Winchester Ski Club and the Wildcats of Boston. Bill Moen, one of the Innitou's jumpers won the slalom, while the downhill race was captured by Roger Corey of the Wildcats . . . Interesting meetings are held by the Innitou Ski Runners every Friday evening at Woburn. Prominent skiers, writers, and officials give talks at these get-togethers, stimulating an interest in the sport . . .

Allen Roddy of Concord, Mass., is now racing under the colors of the New Hampton Outing Club. Allen graduated from this famous prep school last year, and is making his school proud of him in skiing circles . . .

The Nansen Ski Club of Berlin, N. H., claims a long list of "firsts" . . . They built the first ski jump tower in 1882, and introduced ski jumping to this country . . . In 1922, this club ran the first sled dog derby in New England, as well as the first bobsledding, ski-joring behind horses, and 100-mile ski relay race . . . The Nansens also believe that they were the first, in 1917, to organize a junior ski club . . . They now have the highest steel ski jump tower in the world . . . Another "first!"

SUN VALLEY RAYS—Commander Thomas Cochran of San Francisco, a retired naval officer now wintering at this famous resort, owns one of the world's oddest pair of skis . . . Bottoms of these skis are made of a hard black Central American palm, while the tops are of hickory, the two pieces of wood being joined together by pressure. Comdr. Cochran says that the hard palm does away with the need for steel edges. The skis were made from wood he brought with him from Mexico.

Duck's Court Death Tops Ribsplitters In Sports Gag List

The Stanford Auditorium was a madhouse as the hands of the clock swung into the closing seconds of a tense basketball game, according to the Associated Press.

The timer raised his gun, paused momentarily, and fired.

And down from the rafters plummeted a dead duck!

Of all the funny things that happened on basketball courts this year, the gag by an unsung Stanford student caught the fancy of the Associated Press' regional sports editors, who save up little gems like that for roundup stories like this.

Sad was the plight of another Californian—a player on the California team, who, upon being heckled by his teammates for sluggish play, explained he had donned a pair of pants far too small for him—and dared not engage in any serious scrimmage for fear of what might happen.

OFFICIALS PAID, TOO

Two Southwest officials, Jack Sisco and Lynton Boggess, didn't see anything very funny in getting caught in the crowd trying to get into Gregory gym for the Texas-Rice championship game. Their cries were drowned in the jesting of a crowd fo 8000—and they had to get in line like all the rest of the ticket holders.

This one tickled a crowd at a St. Martin's College game at Lacey, Wash. Bob Reynolds had shaved all the hair from his head because he liked the wrong Rose Bowl team. He was playing in a game in where there was a mad scramble under the basket, and resounding slaps were heard as players frantically pelted at Reynolds' pate and the ball.

Finally Coach Joe Paglia could stand it no longer, stood up and screamed, "Hey, for crimminy sakes, you guys. The one with the ears is Reynolds."

Basketball is taken seriously in Canada as well as in this country. Consider the case of members of the Hamilton, Ont., team so intent on playing that they went out on the court in their underwear—their uniforms being not immediately available. And the Daniel Baker College team wasn't kidding when it walked off the court eight minutes before the end of a game in protest over a referee's ruling.

It can be a sentimental game too. Coach Paul Wright of Western State in Colorado said romance ruined his team, the boys being too much in love to play, while a team in the mid-west was lulled into the proper frame of mind before games by the assistant coach playing Chopin waltzes on a piano.

Intinarelli Favored to Win N. E. Welter Title

Welterweights and light heavies are headlined in the New England amateur ring championships at the Garden Monday night. With many of these husky warriors hard punchers, plenty of slugging is assured.

The winners will be selected to represent New England in the Nationals, to be held at the Garden April 8, 9 and 10.

Carlo Intinarelli of Natick, Massachusetts state welter champion, is favored by many. The Natick boy has been a very consistent winner in all the shows held at the Arena this season and is a two-fisted biffer. His opposition will be furnished by Jimmy Mulligan, 18, Lowell laborer, who has a record of 32 wins in the last year; Fred Earle, Jr., 19, Bourne stiff puncher, with a record of 35 victories; James Pettie, 22, Woburn laborer, and Albert Bojak of Central Falls, R. I., state champion, with a record of 32 victories.

The 175-pounders include Tommy Sullivan of South Boston, runner-up in the New England All-American tournament; John Grimes, South End boy, with a record of 40 victories in the last 18 months; Leo Gauthier, Northbridge molder, one of the best light heavies in the amateur ranks; John Kazcavich, Norwood, and Abel Gonsalves of Saylesville, R. I., the state champion of 1940, and winner of the New England All-America title.

THE $104,000 SUIT in New York by Jimmy Braddock and Joe Gould against Mike Jacobs of the Twentieth Century Club proves that the public has had a great deal of unnecessary worry about the financial affairs of the former champion, who came off a New Jersey welfare roll to win the title from Max Baer.

In papers filed in court, Braddock and Gould reveal that before they signed for the title bout with Joe Louis in Chicago it was necessary for Jacobs to give them a contract calling for a 20 per cent cut in his earnings on heavyweight championship bouts over a period of ten years. To date Braddock and Gould insist they have only received $20,000 and that $104,000 is due them under their agreement.

It has also been whispered along the fistic rialto for some months that it was necessary for Louis to give Braddock and Gould a 10 per cent interest in his ring earnings in order for him to get his crack at the championship.

In addition to all this, Braddock received a guarantee of $300,000 for his contest with Louis. As challenger, Louis was paid $50,000, while Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club ended up with control of the heavyweight title.

Jacobs has not denied he entered into an agreement with Braddock and Gould by which they were to receive a share of his future profits.

BRADDOCK WON from Baer in a bout promoted by Madison Square Garden. Under the terms of his contract with the Garden, Braddock agreed to defend his championship within a year. Instead, he signed to defend his title for Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club with Joe Louis as an opponent.

The Garden lawyers went into Federal Court in New Jersey and tried to get an injunction against Braddock going through with the bout. The court ruled in favor of the champion.

Braddock and Gould knew that youthful, hard-hitting Louis figured to win the Chicago bout.

In justice to Braddock, it should be stated he fought with great spirit and courage. He took reckless chances in an effort to knock Louis out. Braddock realized that if he would retain his title he could make more money than he could from his agreement with Jacobs and the reported deal with Louis.

Braddock and Gould could insist upon a similar deal any time they placed their precious championship on the line.

Braddock and Gould were aided by the fact Jacobs was trying to break the strangle hold the Garden had held on the heavyweight title since the days of Tex Rickard. Jacobs was willing to agree to most any terms to get the championship for Louis.

I talked with Mike in his office in Chicago the day after the Louis-Braddock bout.

"I didn't make any money on the show," said Jacobs, "but I did end up with the world's heavyweight title."

WHILE BRADDOCK and Gould did the best they could to protect their financial future, their secret boxing deals did not compare with the one executed by the astute Pete Reilly at the time he had managerial control of Andre Routis of France, world's featherweight champion.

Routis had been beaten by Jake Zeramby in an overweight match in Boston, while other featherweights were also pinning back the ears of the Frenchman. Reilly decided Bat Battalino, Connecticut featherweight, could beat Routis. Pete acquired an interest in the Battalino management, and then signed Routis to defend his title against Bat in a tussle arranged for the Nutmeg state.

Battalino won the decision in a hard, gruelling bout, and Reilly immediately made a press announcement in which he revealed he was manager of the new champion.

Reilly managed to retain control of the featherweight championship for many years. He later piloted Eddie Miller of Cincinnati when the latter was featherweight boss.

Reilly is one of the shrewdest managers of boxers in the country. He was one of Max Schmeling's managers following the break with Arthur Buelow, and did much to pilot the German out front in the heavyweight class.

Reilly, like most other boxing managers, is trying to find a heavyweight who can beat Joe Louis. He realizes that a white heavyweight who can down the "Brown Bomber" will earn a million dollars.

Mike Brody, Harvard's wonder athlete who has been banned from several sports on account of the fact he competed in them while at Annapolis, told me Reilly tried to get him to enter professional boxing, but that he refused to do so.

Reds, Dodgers To Play Today

TAMPA, Fla., March 8 (AP)—The National League champion Reds will play their first exhibition game with Brooklyn's Dodgers here today.

Only a light workout featured the day. Lineups for this afternoon's game were not announced, although Skipper Bill McKechnie has indicated he probably would enter a fledgling nine.

Sox Star Rises

Harris Seen Hill Find

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 8—Of all the rookies in the Red Sox camp, none is coming in for more attention than Mickey Harris, southpaw up from Scranton in the Eastern League.

Harris is the 22-year-old New York boy who did so well in his second year of pro ball that he is being brought up a year ahead of schedule.

He won 17 and lost 4 down with Scranton last season, then added two more victories in the playoffs. But it wasn't only his record that brought him up ahead of time; is was his general all-around savvy.

LEARNS FAST

Harris, only 22, still has plenty to learn about the game, but, like Buddy Hassett and other New Yorkers, he seems to learn the answers more quickly than the kids from the hinterlands.

He's not so big as Butland, Hash and other Sox rookie Goliaths, but he does hit the six-foot mark and weighs about 175 pounds.

He's thin through the chest like Grove used to be, like Carl Hubbell and Tommy Bridges and Bob Feller are today.

Baseball men like his build, for when he fills out he'll still be loose.

Some pitchers get heavy through the chest with the years, and this extra weight interfers with their throwing. Instead of that old overhand zinger, they have to start getting lower and lower with their pitch, until they lose all their zip.

Jim Connors of Medford and Artie Gore of Cambridge, both of whom unpired in the Eastern League last year, tout the kid to the skies.

And he has several other boosters, veterans like Billy Evans and Herb Pennock and youngsters like Ulysses Lupien, who played with Harris last season.

Harris' curve ball right now is as good as Grove's the veterans say and in another year it will be breaking like Rube Walberg's used to do.

He throws most of his pitches with a three-quarters overhand delivery but when he wants to put that little extra frill to it, he lets it go straight overhand, and WOW! It really travels.

HAS FIRE BALL

What the Sox coaches like best about him is his disposition. He was right at home here the first day and he's acted very much at home ever since. Big league and bush league are all one to New York's Mickey. It was his coolness in the playoffs that prompted Billy Evans to bring him up immediately, and he is showing all that seng froid here.

He's throwing them as fast as anyone in camp with the possible exception of Jack Wilson, and with the pitching jobs so wide open he seems to have a fine chance of sticking.

CHAMPIONS Phyllis Thompson, 10-year-old juvenile titlist from Oakland, Cal., and Gretchen Merrill, 14-year-old Brookline National Junior queen, were the hit of the Boston Skating Club's annual Charity Ice Carnival

10-Year-Old Miss 'Steals' Ice Carnival

The Skating Club of Boston scored a decided hit in its opening presentation of the 1940 ice extravaganza before a capacity gathering at its new clubhouse on Soldier's Field rd., Brighton.

Tiny Phyllis Thompson, 10-year-old sensation from Oakland, Cal., stole most of the show as the dainty young miss was all grace and loveliness and completely won the hearts of the large audience with her talented singles performances.

Depicting the "Spirit of Finland" in an attractive peasant costume in which she skated an almost flawless free skating singles, youthful Betsy Nichols, national women's novice champion last year, started the evening's festivities. This number was most timely as the proceeds of this year's affair go partly to the Finnish Relief Fund and Convalescent Home of the Children's Hospital.

Another highlight of the evening was the "Carnival of the Animals," featuring some 60 youngsters cavorting over the ice as chickens, birds, tortoises and a number of others.

Bagby Sharpens Aim

By HERB FINNEGAN

SARASOTA, Fla., March 8—Jim Bagby, with the help of Frank Shellenback, is working industriously on his control. Whereas Jim used to just throw when warming up, Shellenback has him aiming for a target, just as Lefty Grove does. Jim's now shooting a couple for the knees, a couple for the waist, low and outside, high and inside. Billy Evans says Chief Bender and all the old A's standouts used to do the same thing.

Bagby is trying harder this spring than he did two years ago as a freshman when he was honored with the starting nomination against the Yanks in the opening game of the season. He won 15 games that year but last year dogged it and wound up in the gas and buggy league at Little Rock. Newly married, he realized that double drill and no canteen was the only way to success, and he's really going all out in an effort to attain his aim.

Tom Daly, Cronin's smart first lieutenant, says young Jim has more stuff than Jim Bagby, Sr., ever had, and the old man won 30 ball games for Tris Speaker's Cleveland Indians when they won the A. L. flag and World Series in 1920.

Despite the long ride from the Coast, Bobby Doerr's batting eye was sharp on his arrival here. He hit several drives far enough to make one think he'll be up there with Cronin, Williams and Foxx as home run hitters this year.

* * *

Lou Finney reported with a cold and it is still hanging on. The weather here has been nasty in contrast to a year ago. But Lou has his eye on the ball.

Senator Boss on Hunt For Veteran Pitcher

By the Associated Press

ORLANDO, Fla., March 8—Convinced that his Washington Senators need more pitching help, Manager Bucky Harris is spending his time off the field studying the waiver lists. Harris believes that another seasoned hurler must be obtained if the Senators are going to climb out of the second division. In the past, Harris has had considerable success with castoffs from other clubs.

LAKELAND, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers have two players on the hospital list. Infielder Charley Gehringer has been troubled with a lame back and dropped out of practice Wednesday. Barney McCosky, the outfield sensation of last year, has joined him with an upset stomach.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—Fresh from his professional duties at a nearby baseball school, Shortstop Billy Jurges got a chance to show his teaching ability to the New York Giants yesterday. Manager Bill Terry asked him to show the squad Jurges' own very efficient method of scoring from second. Jurges demonstrated how he starts from a point back of the base path to make rounding third base easier.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—They laughed a week ago when Catcher Rollie Hemsley told his Cleveland Indian teammates he was going to bat lefthanded. Although he has been strictly a right-handed hitter throughout his major league career, Hemsley plans to be a switch hitter this season and has been slugging hard from the port side in preparation. He is a capable drag bunter and thinks saving a stride will help him.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The first inter-major exhibition game of the season brought the Brooklyn Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds together today. Manager Bill McKechnie planned to start a team of rookies, being particularly eager to see Outfielder Mike McCormick in action. But the Dodgers took the fray more seriously and called on a crew of veterans led by Pitcher Hugh Casey, who'll probably get the opening game assignment April 16, too.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Besides looking over a couple of rookie futures for first base, Manager Joe McCarthy is making certain the New York Yankees are fortified against a hitting slump by Babe Dahlgren this season. He's grooming Tom Henrich again to step in.

It's a curious and somewhat secretive experiment, but for four days Henrich has been used regularly at second base in reserve infield drills. A member of McCarthy's brain trust disclosed that this was merely to school Henrich in handling ground balls and that he really was being aimed at first base in case of emergency.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Robert Brogan, 21-year-old rookie from Pensacola, Fla., has made an impression upon the Phillies by his play at shortstop.

"He gets the jump quickly, comes in fast, faces the ball and scoops it up," enthused Coach Hans Lobert. "We don't know yet how he'll do at bat, however."

AVALON, Cal.—Clay Bryant, the Chicago Cub pitcher who sat out most of 1939 because of an ailing arm, is coming along fine. He already has thrown more baseballs than he did throughout last season and apparently with no ill effects. The first intrasquad game of the spring was on tap today.

$100,000 in Prizes At 'Gansett Meet

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 8 (INS)—Narragansett Park today occupied a place beside Goshen, N. Y., in the annals of Grand Circuit racing.

Approximately $100,000 is to be distributed in stakes and purses during the 13-day Grand Circuit meeting at 'Gansett during July and August. Heading the list of events is the National Stakes, with an estimated value of $25,000.

Patriotic Reds

TUCSON, Ariz., March 8 (AP)—The Tucson club of the Arizona-Texas League is taking no chance on being classified with "subversive influences."

So-o, President Mickey Shader incorporated it as "The Tucson Reds Baseball Club, Inc.," instead of the "Tucson Reds," as originally planned.

3 Track Records Totter In K. C. Meet Tomorrow

NEW YORK, March 8 (INS)—The 21st annual K. C. meet in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night will wind up the indoor track season in New York.

Chief interest is centered in the Columbian mile, the Casey 600 and the two-mile invitation run, and Frank Brennan, meet director, predicts new world records in all three events.

The mile will see the last of Glenn Cunningham as an indoor performer. The great Kansan expects to make his farewell the occasion for a smashing performance.

He set the world indoor record at 4:07.6 in this race several years ago and Chuck Fenske has equalled that time twice this season. John Borican, the 1000-yard world record holder, has been dropped into the race to assure a terrific pace for the first three quarters.

Gregory Rice, the little Notre Dame runner who broke the world's record for three miles two weeks ago, is bent on winning the two-mile invitation and in setting a new record for the distance. He may get under 8:58, the world record, especially if he is hard pressed by Walter Mehl, Tommy Deckard and Joe McCluskey.

The 600 will see the last start in N. Y. U. colors of Jim Herbert, whose 1:11.1 is the world record for the distance. Jim also is eager to establish new figures, and he may have to run in record time to beat Wes Wallace, Charley Belcher, Johnny Quigley and the Canadian, Bill Fritz.

HOWARD
Sets the Spring Style Stage for Men of Every Age!

This Spring, more than ever before, Howard brings genuine style smartness within the reach of every man. Howard has produced a line of clothes that are so outstandingly fine that men will find it easy to learn the art of being smart! We have created a clothing character that gives the wearer the absolute assurance of a smart appearance as well as the confidence that every detail of style, tailoring, fit and finish is correct. Howard brings you all these things ... but most important of all ... the one low Howard price permits every man to plan a complete Howard wardrobe for Spring, for Palm Sunday and for Easter. Come in tomorrow and discover for yourself how a Howard garment can and will actually improve your appearance.

Every Style is here for Men of every Size and Proportion

Single and double breasted models ... full drape and modified drape models ... spectator sports models and conservative models. Available in worsteds, tweeds and cheviots in a host of pleasing patterns and colors. All sizes up to 52 stout.

BOSTON, FRIDAY, MARCH 8, 1940

Entered as second-class matter at Boston Postoffice

Skyline of New York forms impressive background as the giant British liner Queen Elizabeth, largest afloat, steams up river after successful crossing of ocean in face of submarine danger.

Home! This New York berth into which the Queen Elizabeth is here being warped will be her home for duration of European war . . . on opposite side of pier near the Queen Mary, French liner Normandie is at right. Elaborate precautions were taken by U. S. to prevent sabotage.
